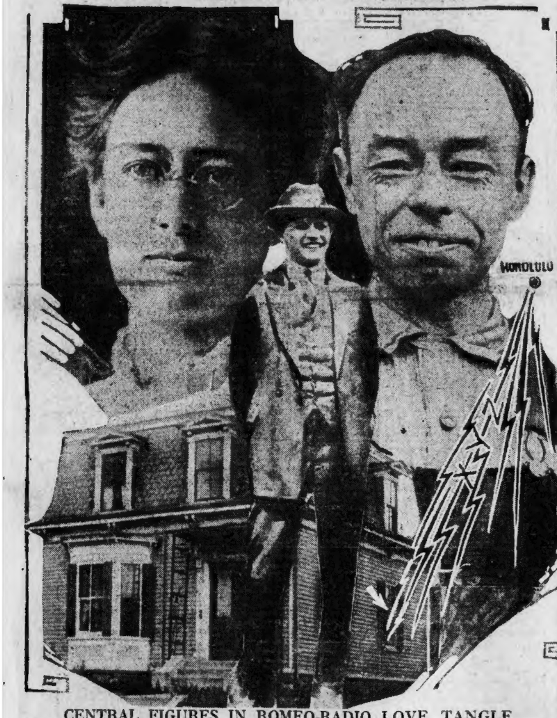
"RADIO WIDOW" SEEKS DIVORCE

LOVE KILLED BY WIRELESS



CENTRAL FIGURES IN ROMEO-RADIO LOVE TANGLE

I'M A RADIO WIDOW, SAYS MRS. HAYES

Wife in Love Injunction Case Defends Cousin Husband Seeks to Oust

If husband has a radio—
Can wifey have a Romeo?

Arthur Hayes, little dark-haired electrician at the Harvard Medical School, has sought a court injunction to have a twenty-one-year-old "star boarder" at his home "given the air."

Arthur wants the court to throw out Lawton Pierce, ex-sailor; keep him out and even forbid him communicating with Arthur's gray-haired but comely wife, Helen M. Hayes.

Today Mrs. Hayes replied to her husband's injunction suit by directing Attorney Dexter Paterson to file suit for divorce.

The Hayes live at No. 45 Birch street, Roslindale.

In the lower flat of a two-apartment house.

It's quite a family. There's Happy and Bill, parrots; Cleo, the poodle; Lawton, with his deep sea walk, Ma and Pa Hayes.

"Ma," as she says Lawton calls her—Lawton's "the kid to Ma—was very terse today in answering the insinuations of her husband as revealed in his suit.

"Arthur was all right," she said until this radio craze started. "Since then he's gone cuckoo.

"He's got a den here that looks like the electrical department in a hardware store.

"He goes to work at 8 in the morning and omes home at 4. The only meal he eats here is dinner. After he tucks that away he goes into his den and that's the last I see of him until the next day for dinner.

His life is nothing but wave lengths and radio stations. He's so bad that if I wanted to talk with him I'd have to have to tack one of those "WGI Medford 360 Wave Lengths" signs on me and let him pick me up."

"It's a fact," piped one of the parrots, shrilly.

"That's Bill," said Mrs. Hayes. "Happy has a cold."

"That," said Mrs. Hayes emphati-

2 BANKMEN SLAIN BY BANDITS

Hundreds See Holdup on the Brooklyn "L"; Gunmen Escape With $43,000

New York, Nov. 14.—Two bank messengers were murdered by two bandits, who stole $43,600 from them in a spectacular hold-up today at the Fifty-fifth street station of the West End subway line at Fifty-fifth street and New Utrecht avenue, Brooklyn.

The Elevated station was filled with workers when the bandits opened fire, later fleeing with their haul in an automobile for which the police have sent out a general alarm within a fifty-mile radius of the city.

The messengers who were shot were William S. Barlow and William H. McLaughlin, both of Brooklyn, and employed by the West End bank. They were taking the money to a Brooklyn branch of the Irving National Bank.

Both messengers were armed.

As they were leaving the bank, carrying the money in a black bag, Barlow felt for his pistol and found he had left it behind him. He returned and got it.

"Don't let anyone take the money from you," said a clerk, laughing.

"I'll resist until I'm killed," Barlow replied lightly.

As they were descending the stairs of the station the messengers were met by the two bandits. Passengers on the platform heard several shots, but could not see exactly what happened.

Persons on the street, however, saw the robbers snatch up the bag, jump into an automobile which they had left with engine running and disappear. A third bandit had been left at the wheel.

Pedestrians were unable to get the license number, for the robbers had adopted the latest bandit device of burning some compound which emits a smoke screen through the exhaust.

Earlier in the day two youthful bandits entered a subway station at Canal and Lafayette streets, shackled the cashier's hands, and while one filled his pockets with money the other made change for the few early passengers. They escaped with $650.

The bandits gained entrance to the cashier's cage, showing employe's badges and asking to use the telephone.

MARCINO GIVEN 4 YEARS AT ATLANTA

J. B. Marcino

Joseph B. Marcino, "Big Joe," former barber who wrecked the Warren, Mass., First National Bank, with its capital of $200,000, then fled to Mexico was sentenced to four years and three months' hard labor in Atlanta Federal prison today.

He pleaded guilty before Judge James M. Morton, Jr., in Federal Court. Sentence was pronounced.

He shivered as he heard it, then shrugged his shoulders and smiled.

Handcuffed to Federal guards he will leave Boston for the Southern city late today.

His sentence will begin tomorrow.

Marcino began his bank-wrecking career at the age of nineteen. He immigrated to this country as a boy. His alias then was Biatia. He learned barbering in Chicago, and it was while shaving bankers in the famous loop that he got the appetite for the wizardry of finance. He stopped

MRS. STOKES WINS SEPARATION SUIT

New York, Nov. 14 (I.N.S.)—Helen Elwood Stokes today won her suit for separation from William Earl Dodge Stokes, seventy-three-year-old millionaire, who failed in his own efforts to divorce her.

Counsel for Stokes ran up the white flag at the very outset of the suit in the Supreme Court today, declaring that "Stokes would not live with this woman even though she won all her suits."

"Nor would Mrs. Stokes live with him any more than she would with a kangaroo," was the retaliation of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Stokes.

"Then it's fifty-fifty," replied Isadore Gainsburg, Stokes' lawyer.

The attorneys stipulated that the

GERMAN ACE LEAPS TO DEATH IN ERROR ON OCEAN LINER

New York, Nov. 14.—Karl Schallenberg, lieutenant in the German air forces during the war, accidentally jumped to his death while the Muenchen, which docked today, was nosing her way along the Long Island coast. He was bound for the United States to enter business in Denver.

With others he was celebrating the closing of the bar when the accident occurred at midnight.

Schallenberg, with a "that's nothing, watch this," ran toward the [illegible] evidently intending to balance himself on the rail by grasping a stay.

He missed both rail and stay.

CUTTER SEEKING RUM-RUNNER INSIDE 12-MILE LIMIT HERE

The new twelve-mile limit agreement with England, relative to the seizure of rum runners at sea, will be put into effect today by the Coast Guard Service here, if the cutter which hurriedly left port early this morning is successful in catching a rum ship which has been lying off Boston and debarking spirituous liquors into small boats.

The rum ship is reported to be lying just inside the twelve-mile limit. She has been seen by various incoming fishermen and merchant vessels and her presence reported to the dry enforcement officers.

The officials refused to reveal the identity of the ship or her position, but it is said to be somewhere between Minot's light on the South Shore, and Egg Rock, off Nahant.

HUNDREDS BID FOR CANINES

One Animal of 'Flapper Type' Brings $107; Many Sell for Good Prices

"Well, here I go for one hundred seven iron men—not crosses—but think what that would have been in marks! Some geld, nicht wahr?"

Yvette speaking, the wolf-tawny German police dog flapper who won all hearts and drew the highest price at the auction of the thirty-two canines from Hamburg, which arrived in the land of mercy and freedom and nearly starved on the wharves.

"I hope I have got a good master," chattered Yvette as she fox-trotted off the auction block. She did. He is T. J. Brennan, coal man of No. 198 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, a dog lover.

"Woof!" said Fritz, big, rangy, gray-black copper dog, who was knocked down for $38.

Hundreds jammed innto the small auction room of the Animal Rescue League, Carver street, today when the dogs, refused at this end of their trip and on which shipping charges are still unpaid, were actioned off on the block.

Lynn, Nov. 14 (I.N.S.).—The proposed voluntary reduction in wages of shoe workers was opposed today when representatives of 2,000 women stitchers, lasters and packing room workers voted against having the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation come here to revise the wage scale. Their action upsets the work of the joint council.

BOY, FLUNKED IN STUDIES, DISAPPEARS FROM HOME

Stephen A. Jennings, sixteen years old, son of Lieutenant Patrick H. Jennings of the Boston Fire Department, disappeared from his home last Friday when he learned that he had failed in his studies at the Boston College High School. Lieutenant Jennings has had a description of the youth broadcasted by radio. The father traced the boy to New Bedford where he learned his son had stayed Saturday and Sunday. When Jennings went to New Bedford to bring the boy back, he found the youth had again departed. Stephen is described as five feet four inches in height, weighing 130 pounds and light complexioned.

FRANCE PLANS TO SEIZE HAMBURG

Lodnon, Nov. 14 (A.P.)—In the British view the seizure of Hamburg or other German ports is not to be ruled out from possible action by France if Germany refuses to expel the ex-Crown Prince, but officials here declare England will decline to support any such drastic measure.

Rome, Nov. 14 (I.N.S.).—France has notified the other allied powers of her intention to occupy Hamburg, Germany's greatest seaport, according to an unconfirmed report circulated in diplomatic circles today.

Italy is opposed to seizure of Hamburg by Rrance, fearing it will complicate the German situation.

WIFE IN LOVE INJUNCTION SUIT CALLS SELF "RADIO WIDOW"

KEPT "STAR BOARDER" TO BATHE PET POODLE

cally, "is the man I am married to. If it wasn't for poor Lawton I would be nothing but a Radio Widow. Lawton takes me to the Daughters of Rebecca dances and other nice socials, not because he is devoted, merely because he realizes that I would have to go alone if he didn't.

"Why," she gazed about, "that is why 'The Kid' gave me Bill and Happy and Cleo; so I wouldn't be lonesome when he was away. He got them in South America when he was in the navy. If the court takes Lawton from me I don't know what I'll do."

"As to my husband's charges, that Lawton alienated my affections, they are ridiculous, really," Mrs. Hayes sighed, patting her gray hair. "Why, I am forty-three years old, two years older than Lawton's mother.

"I've known Lawton since he was a baby, held him on my lap. He's just a dear boy. To me he's 'The Kid.' He calls me 'Ma.'

HUBBY GOT HAWAII

"I invited Lawton to live with us a year ago, when he left the navy. To be perfectly frank, we are first cousins. My father and his mother were brother and sister. I really don't know what I'd do without Lawton. He feeds Bill and Happy and gives Cleo her bath.

"Sometimes, you know, I am away for a few days. If it wasn't for Lawton the poor dears would starve," and Ma Hayes petted Cleo with a hand, while she reached a shapely nose into the parrot cage to be tenderly pecked.

"Imagine where you would be if it were left to Papa Hayes to feed you? Huh." She addressed her pets directly. "You'd be lying with your feet up, while he was buzzing IOU Pittsburgh on his old radio."

She wiped a tear from her big gray eyes with a wisp of a kerchief.

"It runs in his family, I think," she said, alluding to her husband again. "His father came from Lynn to visit us and I had to have the walls of three rooms repapered because he didn't like the patterns.

"His visit must have cost us ninety dollars and he was with us but a few days.

"Last Sunday I left a hospital I had been in eight weeks. If it hadn't been for Lawton's visits I would have died. My husband rarely came near me.

"Once when he did he told me he had gotten Hawaii on the radio and said the iron bed in which I lay would be just the thing to connect the antenna to if I had a set."

At the Harvard Medical school Hayes, in overalls suit, was found in the engine room fondling a dynamo with a bunch of waste. He patted it tenderly, wiped off a few drops of its oily prespiration. His black bushy hair is made a jest of by a bald spot in the middle of his dome. He has a black mustache, receding chin, lusterless dark eyes and is built close to the floor.

"That's some set you got up at the house," said the reporter shaking hands.

It was a tactical error.

"Ain't it a pip?" said the little engineer—he is one of three working an eight-hour shift at thes chool—"made it myself and lemme tell you you orta see what I get with it. Gee whiz, I've even got China."

"But what about your suit? Is it true that young Pierce alienated your wife's affections?" asked the scribe.

But Hayes was off—off on his pet subject and his suit to eject the ex-gob valet to his wife's pet parrots, which will come up for a hearing next month, was forgotten.

"Have any trouble with your amplifier?" he asked.

"Your varicoupler ever jam?"

"How do you find B batteries?"

"Bet you've had a mess with your variometer."

"Didn't try my set, did you?" He shoved the oily waste into his jumper pocket. "Say," he said, placing both hands on the reporter's shoulder in a confidential attitude of a brother Moose, "wait'll I'm through here, will you, and come up to the house with me and I'll show you how that set o' mine works. You never in your life saw—hey!"——

But the reporter stumbling over whizzing dynamos and elbowing huge boilers, had fled.

An hour later he met Lawton, who is six feet tall and hails from Maine.

JUST "MOTHER" TO HIM

"Hayes," said the ex-gob, "is crazy. Why, I sleep in an attic room which I furnished myself; regard Mrs. Hayes as a mother and have nothing but the friendliest of feelings for them both. He ordered me out long ago, but I thought he was fooling. Now I'm looking for a place to live.

"Once he burst into the house and, shaking his fist in my face, asked me if I was willing to marry Ma if he divorced her. I laughed at him. I thought he had been to see a thriller in the movies and was doing some new stuff.

"But now he must be serious.

"Gosh." He rubbed his head. "I hate the thoughts of moving all that furniture, but—if he's givin' me the air, I suppose I better take it," and he hustled back to work in the downtown market where he sells beef.

Are You a 'Radio Widow?' Then Tell Your Troubles!

Mrs. Helen M. Hayes says she is a "Radio Widow."

What is a Radio Widow?

A Radio Widow is a lady whose husband is a radio bug. He is always tuning in then tuning out. He no sooner gets a nice concert on WOR Newark and wifey sits back to enjoy it than he says, "Wait a minute, I'll get Providence and see what they got on."

He tunes in on some other treat. His wife is excited, the connection is perfect, she is going to have a perfect evening. Then hubby turns, disconnects the horn and ties up the ear pieces which he fits to his head and wifey is out of the picture.

Boston is full of Radio Widows.

Are you one? If so write the AMERICAN and tell us your heart-breaking experiences with your radio husband.

SUIT IS WON BY MRS. STOKES

separation would not be contested and upon the statement of Supreme Court Justice Wasserogel that legally a husband could not consent to a separation, agreed that Mrs. Stokes would present a prima-facie case and the separation be granted.

WINS BY DEFAULT.

This means formal testimony will be entered and the separation go virtually by default.

All other issues, the petition of Mrs. Stokes for custody of the two children who are now in Denver, for $35,000 permanent alimony a year and for $2,333,000 as her dower rights in Stokes' $7,000,000 estate, however, will be fought bitterly by the millionaire husband.

Untermyer charged that Stokes' surrender was to save him from public opinion which "has rightfully lashed him."

Gainsburg declared it was to "save both this man and woman from further publicity of their marital affairs."

He added that since Stokes and Mrs. Stokes were unanimous in declaring they would not live with each other the separation might as well be granted.

Untermyer agreed to an adournment of the trial until Monday to give Ginsberg, only recently retained by Stokes, opportunity to familiarize himself with the testimony in the recent divorce suit and other actions in the five-year fight between the aged turfman and his beautiful young wife.

TO PROTECT CHILDREN.

Mr. Untermyer intimated he would make strong effort to prevent a court order permitting Stokes access to his children.

"It would be ruinous to their future and against their best interests," he told the court.

He added that he and Mr. Stokes' attorney had practically decided on the amount of alimony to be paid Mrs. Stokes, whereupon Mr. Gainsburg announced that he would fight to protect his client's future property rights.

MOSELEY FIRM IN WILLETT CASE TODAY

George F. Willett of Norwood again occupied the witness stand all day in the Suffolk Superior Court at Dedham, in the case of Willett & Sears Company against various Boston and New York financial houses. Today was Willett's third day on the stand, and he will probably remain there the rest of the week.

Again today Willett's evidence went in over the protests of council for the defendants, Judge Callahan admitting it for the purpose of showing that the defendants, or certain of the defendants, had an inside knowledge of the affairs of the "Willett companies."

The testimony was to show that F. S. Moseley & Co., the Congress street note brokerage house, was intimately acquainted with the affairs of the Woonsocket Machine & Press Company, the United Printing Machinery Company, the Framingham Foundries, the Roxbury Carpet Company and the Boston Belting Company.

Willett testified that S. H. Fessenden of the Moseley concern acted in a fiduciary capacity for Willett & Sears in the purchase of stock in these companies. He said the Willett & Sears acquired control of the Roxbury Carpet Company for $1,612,500, and that the Roxbury Carpet Company acquired shares in the Boston Belting Company for $1,325,000. After acquiring the Framingham Foundries, Willett & Sears spent nearly $400,000 in putting them on a paying basis, and had just "turned the corner" when the crash occurred.

The witness said that the book assets of the Woonsocket Machine & Press Company, plus good will, etc., were $3,700,000 and the liabilities were $1,700,000 in 1918. The assets of the United Printing Machinery Company were $437,000 and the liabilities $270,000.

Attorney George McLellan for Fessenden objected to the testimony in detail and in toto.

Judge Callahan today reproved the counsel for speaking in undertones in the conduct of the case.

Attorney Sherman Whipple, chief counsel for the plaintiffs, and George L. Mayberry for Kidder, Peabody & Company were arguing a point of law or evidence when the presiding justice broke in testily:

"Gentlemen! I should like to hear this, too—if it isn't a secret between friends."

FRANCE PLANS TO SEIZE HAMBURG

Advices from Paris said that the advisability of seizing Hamburg as punitive matter has been discussed by the French cabinet.

France first considered punitive measures (or sanctions, to use the diplomatic term) in the Ruhr in retaliation for Germany's action in allowing the former Crown Prince to return and rejectng the French demand for re-establishment of allied military control, but later turned to the idea of occupying Hamburg.

One Dead, 20 Wounded, in Dusseldorf Riot

Dusseldorf, Nov. 14.—A clash between the police and a crowd of unemployed holding a demonstration caused the killing of one person and the wounding of twenty others. The demonstrations were resumed today, the crowds protesting unemployment. In general, they were orderly, but singing the "International."

Ambassadors Pass Up Crown Prince Problem

Paris, Nov. 14 (A.P.).—The Allied Council of Ambassadors failed to consider at its meeting today the return of the Crown Prince to Germany and Germany's attitude regarding resumption of allied military control.

It is understood the ambassadors avoided mentioning these questions because the allies were not in accord as to the proper course of action.

Great Britain, which took the initiative in the sending of a coercive note to Germany regarding the return of Frederick William, is now said to be desirous of dropping the whole matter, while France, which was at first indifferent but later came to favor action of some sort, is ready for such action.

Ludendorff and Hitler Face Trial for Treason

Munich, Nov. 14. (Universal Cable).—Adolph Hitler, Bavarian Fascisti leader, once an Austrian paperhanger, and General Erich Ludendorff are to be tried together before a special "popular court" on a charge of treason.

The special court will be organised under the provisions of the martial law. The penalty may be confinement in a fortress, imprisonment or death.

General Ludendorff is now practically interned in his villa.

Hitler, who had declared that he would "win or die" was arrested at the home of a friend.

British Stock Slump Worst Since Gladstone

London, Nov. 14.—Knowledge in the financial district that a general election was imminent caused a loss of 52,000,000 pounds in the value of gilt-edged stock on the London Exchange in the short space of two days.

Although prospects of an election always upset the market, the fact that the present poll is only a few weeks away has had the most depressing effect since the days of the Gladstone government's defeat over home rule. Another cause of depression is the fear that a Labor victory would mean an immediate capital levy.

Leo Deckers, Rhine Revolt Leader, Jailed

Cologne, Nov. 14.—Leo Deckers, Separatist leader, has been arrested at Verviers, just over the Belgian frontier, according to advices from Aix-la-Chapelle.

Demand Extradition of Crown Prince

Brussels, Nov. 14.—Deputies Van Hock, Bquesses and Mathieu, respectively, members of the Catholic, Liberal and Socialist parties, served notice on the government today that they would interpellate it as to the measures "the Belgion Government intends taking in view of the return of the crown prince to Germany."

The interpellators will demand that the government ask the extradition of the crown prince in conformity with article 228 of the Treaty of Versailles.

The three deputies, the first two of whom belong to the governmental majority, also will request the government to take measures to prevent a similar return to Germany of the ex-Kaiser, "which is in course of preparation."

The interpellations contain criticisms of Holland's attitude. It is expected they will be presented tomorrow.

"Farm Life for Me," Says Crown Prince

Oels, Prussian Silesia, Nov. 14 (Copyright, 1923, I. N. S.).—"Cows and chickens are the things for me—not politics," said former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm today.

The ex-Crown Prince walked over his estates and chatted with servants.

"I am here as a private citizen," he said. "I am not interested in politics. I plan to lead a continued isolated life, devoting my whole attention to my family and my farm.

How America Grows
Look at Texas
And Study Fort Worth
Where the Indians Came Winding

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

HOW FAST does America grow? What causes growth? What will be the size of this nation in people and wealth eventually?

Look at Fort Worth, marvelous city, metropolis of Western Texas, ending today the celebration of a diamond jubilee.

SEVENTY-FIVE years ago, on a bluff above the river divide, a military fort was established. It was a good place to watch for Indians, as they came down the valley on ponies or paddled down the stream.

FIFTY-FIVE years pass, and on that spot stands a city of 26,000 people.

Twenty more years go by, ending today, and that fort is "an interesting spot," in a city of 156,000 people.

WHAT WILL it be in another twenty years, and in another hundred years?

No man can guess. Away in what Fort Worth calls "Eastern Texas," is Dallas, a city of 180,000. A third city to unite the two is growing up between them over the stretch of thirty miles.

Five hundred thousand progressive Americans live in that spot of which Dallas and Fort Worth are the constantly growing nuclei of population, energy and building.

HOW DO THOSE cities grow in this great republic, in the heart of the empire of Texas, changing as Fort Worth has done, from 26,000 to 156,000 in twenty years?

The question is answered when you see the site of the United States army camp, where soldiers stayed on a well-chosen piece of high bare ground during the war.

THE SOLDIERS are gone as they have gone from many camps in New York, New Jersey, where such abandoned camps lie dismantled, desolate.

The camp at Forth Worth, in the few years since the war, has been transformed by a miracle of energy, to a beautiful city within the city, with 9,000 inhabitants, occuping beautiful residences, not one more than five or six years old.

THAT'S HOW a Texas city like Fort Worth grows. Every month Fort Worth builds for itself another addition to the coming great City of Texas.

Where the waters once flood- the walls of the fort watching for tribesmen winding down the valley, there is now a bronze tablet that ends that chapter.

Wher the waters once flooded the valley, and land was worthless, the third greatest packing house city in the world now stands.

SURROUNDING the site of the old fort are dwellings of working men, as different from ordinary workers' residences in a great city as broad Texas is different from a crowded corner of Europe.

Each man has his cottage, new, freshly painted, well kept, his garage, and his automobile in the rear.

Many a young couple, just married, the husband working in his place, the wife working at home, build first their garage and live in it, meanwhile building and paying for the house, which is ready by the time it needs "room for the baby to crawl," and a refrigerator for the milk bottles.

NOT ONLY cities, but civilization, grow in power and in character in the new lands of America.

The city is far from the water, so it builds an artificial lake with a shore line of forty miles.

Texas not only finances herself, but actually helps finance the old and less energetic East.

TEXAS THIS year produced six hundred million dollars' worth of cotton. It actually has money to invest. There are no "frozen loans," and Texas money is invested in Eastern securities, where, a few years ago, almost every dollar had a piece bitten out of it by Eastern money lenders.

AMERICAN CITIES like Fort Worth grow as though by magic, because every citizen is a builder, feels that he personally is responsible for the city's growth and makes it grow.

The citizens decide that great cities need a great hotel. They build it, finding every dollar in Fort Worth, not borrowing outside. They know that streets, well paved, should grow more rapidly than the most rapidly growing city. They build them by the miles. The citizens present their petition; the streets are built.

GIGANTIC is the wealth of this State of Texas with its thirty-two million acres under cultivation and a hundred and thirty-six million acres still to be cultivated.

Who can guess or dream the destiny, the future greatness of the empire of Texas inside the Republic of the United States?

FIGURES give but a feeble idea. However, consider these figures:

Inside of Texas you could put Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, twice over. You could have room for New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. And after putting into Texas New England States twice over, plus Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, you would still have land enough left to feed plentifully all the five million of people that are in Texas now.

IN TEN YEARS Dallas and Fort Worth will be usefully and patriotically competing centres of one group of over a million.

How soon will that become two, three, four and five millions?

The people of the United States do not know what they own, how great they are, in opportunity, or how great their destiny. Texas proves it.

STRANDED DOGS BRING BIG PRICE

sinister of mongreldom, as white feet and other irregularities.

The total amount of the sale netted $2099 for the twenty-two male dogs and the ten females. Bidding was at all times brisk and dog fanciers in the crowd declared the prices were high, considering present, at least, lack of uedigrees

It was a diferent apearing bunch of dogs from the starved and ill canines which were taken in charge by the League last week and fed and nursed. Some yet bore marks of their harch experience, but eyes were generaly bright and ears cacked high.

Auctioneer Frank E. McKenzie of Exeter wielded the mallet, while Patrolman Francis J. Martin of Station No. 4 was present to keep the crowd of bidders at bay.

Was it fact or fancy that, into the eyes of the dogs as they were lifted to the high auction block, crept the same wondering light that has smouldered in the eyes of men and women who have stood on auction blocks in ages past?

BIDDING IS VERY BRISK.

Some of the dogs whined and some yipped. Others growled in disdain and yet others grimly stared fate in the face and refused to drop the mask of indifference. It was all very human, after all.

The filrst dog up, a young male, started at $11 and went at I39. The next, a big rangy, wolfish brute, went at $45. From then on the bidding rose. Several went for $80 and a handsome tawny, fox-tinged dark gray female, bought by H. Harris, brought an even century.

No. 15, a peppy, wolfish pup, was jumped to $75 quickly. At $78 he howled in disdain. Then somebody jumped the bid $2 and he was knocked off at an even $80.

No. 23, a blonde flapper dog, named Gretel, didn't mind her skidoo number at all and winked brazenly at Coper Martin as she shimmied about the autcion block. She was led away for $65. No. 24, a husky blonde, more of the hausfrau type, stuck out her tongue at the same copper when she was bid off at $69.

Shipping charges on dogs will be paid from funds realized and the United States duty must be paid. What is left will go to whoever are the real owners.

MRS. BOYER NO. 2 GETS 7-DAY STAY

Second Wife of Former Clerical Romeo Arraigned in the Roxbury Court

Lucille Macomber of Nova Scotia, the second wife of Francis P. Byer, unfrocked Episcopalian rector and clerical Romeo, was arraigned in R bury court today on charges of misconduct with Boyer in marrying him before the first Mrs. Boyer's divorce from the love-mad parson became absolute.

Counsel representing Boyer who is a fugitive in Rhode Island, promised to have his client in court one week from today and the case against the Nova Scotia wife was continued to that date.

ARDENT LOVE MAKING.

Mrs. Boyer was arrested when she went to Roxbury court two weeks ago and, in applying for a warrant against Boyer, charging bigamy, she told of their man-and-wife relations, illegal in this State. Since then she has engaged new counsel.

Frank G. Montague, attorney for the second Mrs. Boyer said today that the unfortunate Nova Scotia girl had been overwhelmed by Boyer's ardent love making, both in person and by letters pledging undying devotion, but that she was now disillusionized and would ask for an annulment of her marriage at the earliest possible day.

Mrs. Boyer asserts that when she married Boyer she was unaware that Mrs. Bernice Boyer had won a divorce on grounds of infidelity, and that Mrs. Boucher, an affinity of Boyer's, drank poison and died after losing his love.

It was said today that Boyer had been seen in Providence at least twice during the past week, and may be staying in that city. Detectives who are seeking him on charges of bigamy, however, have been unable to find him.

NO PASSPORT ISSUED.

The report that Boyer was leaving the country caused telegrams to be sent to the State Department at Washington, asking that no passports be issued to him, and revealed that no applications for passports had been filed by him. State Department officials said that passports would not be issued while criminal charges are pending against him.

It was learned today that Boyer's love for Lucile Macomber, ardently proclaimed in letters avowing the constancy of his affection for her, and poured in her ears at their every meeting, proved to have no more lasting qualities than that which he had previously felt for his first wife, the niece of Mrs. Jack Gardner and prominent in society, or to Mrs. Bernice Boucher, who drank poison and died because he ceased to love her.

The Nova Scotia country girl was pining in a hospital after her marriage to Boyer when she noticed a coolness in his letters to her. The letters grew colder and less frequent as her illness continued, until a last one came telling her that she was not his wife, as their marriage was illegal.

LIFER GETS 40 DAYS ADDED TO SENTENCE

New York, Nov. 14.—"Bad Bill" Monroe, Orange County desperado, in Sing Sing prison for the murder of Andrew Barrett, the hermit of Fishkill, violated parole last week, and as a result the State Prison Department has added forty days to his sentence.

Monroe was not disturbed, however, as his sentence is for life. He was put in the awkward squad.

He became vice-president of a Chicago bank. Investigators closed the institution speedily. Marcino then went into the insurance field once more, and as a side line opened an investment company. He became affiliated with a man who is now doing time in Atlanta. They opened banks in half a dozen small towns in Illinois and wrecked them all. He was indicted but fled to Mexico, then to Italy.

PRAISED BY KING

During the war he became a purchasing agent for the Italian Government. He bought supplies in this country. King Victor Emanuel, delighted with his work, personally conferred a high honor upon him, and wrote him a letter of commendation. With this letter he returned to New York obtained possession of a Buffalo bank then through "dummies" got control of the bank in Warren. This was his last splurge.

He fled to Mexico was later caught and last March brought to Boston for trial. Sentence followed today. He has implicated other men in the Warren failure who await trial.

$60,000 AND DECREE FOR ACTRESS

Tells Judge He Has Done More for Humanity Than Anyone She Knows

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—It took exactly three and a half minutes of court procedure for Marjorie Rambeau, actress, to secure a divorce from Hugh Dillman McCaughey, her actor-husband.

The court divided the time of procedure into two minutes allotted Miss Rambeau to describe how her husband deserted her in New York, one minute in which Bertha Cornelia, Miss Rambeau's colored maid, corroborated her testimony and a half-minute for Superior Court Judge Thomas Graham to sign the papers.

"I have always felt that San Francisco was my home," said Miss Rambeau. "I was born here and here is where I came to get my freedom."

DON'T ASK ME.

"What was the trouble between you," inquired the court.

"Oh, judge, please don't ask me that," was the pleading reply.

"Did you desert your husband or did he leave you?" she was asked.

"He left me," said the fair plaintiff.

Miss Rambeau had originally charged cruelty in her complaint filed several months ago, but this was later amended to allege only desertion after, it is understood, Dillman threatened to fight the case. In the first document she accused the actor of beating her. The property settlements were made out of court, but Miss Rambeau will receive 75 per cent. of the community property worth $60,000 and invested in New York real estate.

As she left the stand after the judge had signed the decree, Miss Rambeau stopped, smiled prettily at him and said:

REAL HUMAN BEING.

"I want to take this opportunity of grasping the hand of a real human being, who has done more for humanity than any judge I know."

Judge Graham is known as "the great reconciler," but he had no chance to bring about a reunion in this case, and made no attempt to avoid giving Miss Rambeau her freedom.

Miss Rambeau had returned from Los Angeles, where last Saturday she closed an engagement in "The Valley of Content," by Blanche Upright, at the Majestic Theatre.

"Now I am in the real 'Valley of Content,'" she said in conclusion today as she left the hall in a taxi.

Miss Rambeau and McCaughey were married in New York about three years ago. The actress had divorced Willard Mack, her first husband in 1917.

OLD MARTHA BADLY BURNED BAKING HER CHRISTMAS CAKE

Two weks before Thanksgiving she began it.

In it must go figs 'n' spice 'n' everything nice.

It was a rite in Martha's life. Nobody to eat it but her, but that didn't matter. The joy in the making was climaxed in the joy of Christmas. By two lighted candles old Martha ate her cake.

She began it today, did Martha Scoff, bending her body feeble with seventy hard wearing years over the kitchen stove of her home at No. 45 Hudson street, South End. Then she collapsed. She was found burning alive. Neighbors rescued her, stamped out the fire. In City Hospital they don't think Martha will know Christmas this year, or the taste of fruit cake.

WOMEN SPEND $15 EACH YEAR FOR ROUGE AND LIPSTICKS

Lady, if you didn't spend $15 for toilet powders, lip sticks, rouge and cold cream during the past twelve months you didn't get your share.

Frank S. Sisson, in a broadcast speech, declared that the women of America spend $750,000,000 for these articles annually, and figures that every woman should have $15 worth. They also spend $150,000,000 annually for hair nets, $63,000,000 for perfumes and $145,000,000 for toilet soaps. The women and the kids, with here and there a man, spend $100,000,000 for chewing gum.

Sisson was talking about advertising and quoted these figures to show that intelligent advertising not only increases the immediate returns of the advertiser, but helps toward the building up of sound business relations.

BLONDES LABELED FICKLE, BRUNETTES ARE MOROSE

Montreal, Nov. 17 (By Universal Service).—Blondes are flirts and fickle, brunettes are morose and red heads are "up and down," Professor Edward L. Hawk told the Montreal Club of Applied Psychology here tonight.

Brunettes, he added, are passive, slow, meditative, spiritual, serious, dependable, constant and affectionate while the blondes are active, quick, critical, optimistic, enthusiastic and cheerful. Ther principal weakness is fickleness.

Blondes excell in advertising, politics, exploring, organizing, salesmanship and teaching, while brunettes lead in drama, music, literature, art, philosophy and agriculture.

SKIPPER AND 2 WOMEN SAVED AFTER 48 HOURS IN STORM

New York, Nov. 14.—Crews of three coal barges, and the wife and daughter of the captain of the barge Marion O'Boyle, were rescued off Cape May, N. J., today, after a forty-eight-hour buffeting in an Atlantic sorm.

The rescues were effected by the coast guard cutter Kickapoo and the tug Underwriter, which picked up the O'Boyde's captain, wife and daughter in an open boat in which they had fought the storm for several hours after the barge went down.

The Kickapoo and the Underwriter were reported to be standing by the barges City of Orleans and Druid Hill, whose crews were taken off after the O'Boyle captain and family were saved.

Madrid, Nov. 14.—A royal decree promulgated today ousts the presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, Count Romanones, former Premier, and Melquiades Alvarez, respectively.

Their removal was effected by General Primo-Rivera, president of the military directorate, after the presidents asserted that under the constitution the Cortes must be convoked within ninety days after dissolution of an old parliament.

HUNT MAN WITH DEAD BABE IN BAG

A six-foot man, dressed in black and carrying a black bag with the body of a baby inside, is being sought by the Cambridge police.

The search for the man began after Wilfred Walker, operator of a one-man street car, notified the police that the mysterious stranger appeared on his car.

Walker said the man with the black bag got aboard at Broadway and Trowbridge street, Cambridge. He dropped his fare in the box. Walker's eyes fell on the black bag. He thought he noticed blood stains near the handle.

"What have you in the bag?" asked Walker.

"A baby," the man calmly answered.

Walker took another look. He said he saw a chubby little hand and more blood.

Walker started up the car, keeping a watch for a policeman. He saw none.

Near Harvard Square the man with the black bag asked Walker for a transfer to North Cambridge. He got one and left Walker's car. Walker finally found a policeman in Harvard Square and reported the matter to him

The description of the man is: Six feet in height, weight 165 pounds, dressed in dark suit, dark overcoat and dark hat

Married Doctor

ALMA RUBENS.

New York, Nov. 15.—Confirmation of the marriage of Alma Rubens, whose artistic career reached its zenith in her striking portrayal in the great motion picture drama, "Under the Red Robe," to Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, author and film producer, has been obtained.

The couple are residing for the present at the Hotel Plaza. News of the marriage came as a surprise to the picture world and its myriad following.

While neither Miss Rubens or Dr. Goodman could be found at their hotel today to give the details, it was learned from close friends that the romance began several months ago, when the two were brought much into each other's company through the rehearsals of a new film which was produced under Dr. Goodman's direction.

DRY OFFICIALS FACE ARREST IN RUM THEFTS

Agents of the Department of Justice, prohibition enforcement detectives and officials from the United States Marshal's office have been pressed into service to speed up the investigation of the thefts of confiscated liquor from the government warehouse in Boston and to bring about arrests.

Elihu D. Stone. Robert O. Harris.

United States District Attorney Robert O. Harris declared that every agency at the command of the Federal officials is being used to gather evidence following the report of the United States Grand Jury.

Efforts are being made to learn the exact amount of liquor stolen from the Massachusetts Storage Warehouse, the storage place specifically referred to in the Grand Jury's report.

OFFICIALS INVOLVED.

The next step to be taken by the United States District Attorney's office will depend upon the results of the investigation that is now under way, Mr. Harris said.

It is rumored in the Federal building that the arrest of officials who played important roles in the early days of prohibition enforcement, may take place soon.

District Attorney Harris refused to comment on the expected arrests, declaring that no statement on that subject would be made by him until the present investigation is concluded.

The Grand Jury report which resulted in the investigation now under way was startling in its revelations relative to the part played by dry agents in "the early days of prohibition."

Immediately following the Grand Jury report, Assistant District Attorney Elihu D. Stone appeared in the United States Court and asked the forfeiture of 60,000 gallons of liquor valued at $2,500,000 current bootleg prices, most of which is stored in police stations in Massachusetts cities from Cape Cod to the Berkshires. The destruction of $250,000 worth of stills is also sought.

That lax methods had been used in checking up on seized liquor, that promiscuous stealing had been going on in the Massachusetts Storage Warehouse, and that the thefts can be explained only by the dishonesty of agents and others having charge of seized liquors, are among the findings of the grand jury. Richard Berenson, manager of the warehouse, is absolved of blame by the grand jury findings.

Lawrence Wide Open, Declare Rum Probers

Lawrence, Nov. 14.—Revelations of the alleged wide-open moonshine traffic in this city were made today by Anti-Saloon League investigators, while Federal prohibition agents sought indictments at Boston against four alleged members of the so-called Million Dollar Rum Ring.

The four men, who face indictment, according to Federal Prohibition Agent Walter Goodridge of Reading, are: Tony Alimo, Sylvestine Bartoliotti and Sam Caruso of Lawrence, and James Calzetta of North Andover.

These men have been redistilling alcohol, the officials say, in a huge steam-powered still in the rear of a North Ondover farmhouse.

Malcolm C. Davis, field agent of the Anti-Saloon League, is responsible for the disclosures of the alleged liquor traffic.

Several affidavits, one, it is said, purporting to show that "hush" money was being paid to certain municipal employes, have been forwarded to Washington Prohibition headquarters.

The Boston American learned today that the league detectives allege in their reports that the liquor traffic in this city is conducted openly in all sections of the city.

Near-beer saloons in Common, Valley and Essex streets and on Broadway are "easy" oases to the thirsty stranger in the city, they claim.

In Common street near police headquarters, investigators declare is located the city's wholesale liquor establishment.

From this depot the probers assert all grades of beer, ale, champagnes and whiskies are sold in quantities "to the trade."

CUTTERS STRIP FOR WINTER'S COAST VIGIL

Captain F. H. Uberoth of the Eastern Division of the United States Coast Guard today issued orders to the three cutters in his division, the Tampa at Boston, the Ossipee at Portland and the Acushnet at Woods Hole to make preparations to take up their Winter's vigil partolling the coast, and especially the dangerous points, to render assistance to vessels in distress. The Ossipee will cruise between the Canadian border at Eastport and Boston. The Tampa from Portsmouth, N. H., to New London and the Acushnet, Nantucket and Vineyard sounds and adjacent waters.

The cutters are expected to be at sea in dangerous storms and only return to their bases in settled fine weather. They are expected to respond to all radio calls for help within reasonable steaming distance of their stations and, in the words of Captain Uberoth's order to the commanders "you will leave no effort untried to make for your command an enviable record."

The cutters will brave rocky shoals, shifting sand bars and treacherous cross currents in screaming hurricanes in order to assist vessels in distress. Shore leave to officers and men is closely restricted and for four months the little, but powerful ships, play pitch and toss with Father Neptune in his angriest moods.

The usual duties of the cutters, the enforcement of the revenue laws, made doubly hard by reason of the 18th amendment, must not be neglected.

JOHN R. QUINN

JOKE EXPOSED LEGION HEAD AS KLANSMAN

Here is the inside story of how the country was stirred a few days ago by announcement that the American Legion had elected as its head a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

The man is John Quinn, a Californian.

The expose of his Klan activities came from Congressman James A. Gallivan of Boston.

Today Congressman Gallivan said that General Edward L. Logan of Boston and Colonel Thomas S. Murphy had charged Quinn with being a member of the Klan on their return from the convention in San Francisco.

"It came out in a joking way," said Mr. Gallivan. "I was joshing with the general about the showing Majoh-General Clarence R. Edwards, head of the legion in this State, had made at the convention. (Edwards ran against Quinn.)

"'Fine job you did on 'the old man,' I said to General Logan. 'We man, I said to General Logan. "'We had to vote for somebody,' said General Logan.

"'Well,' said I, 'why didn't you vote for Quinn. That's a good name.'

SAYS LEGION WAS FOOLED.

"'Vote for him?' said Logan, 'why he's a Ku Klux Klanner. That was the reason our delegation refused to make his election unanimous.'

"I was astounded," continued Congressman Gallivan. "Later on I met James F. Anderson, chairman of the Suffolk County council of the legion. I mentioned the matter to him

"'He said: 'They put one over on us.'"

Commander Quinn admitted, according to some who attended the meeting, that he permitted a friend to use his name, but withdrew from the Klan as soon as he learned what it was all about.

Commander Quinn, according to all his friends now, is not friendly to the K. K. K.

REGRETS PUBLICITY.

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, head of the legion in Massachusetts, expressed regret today that Congressman Gallivan had given the matter publicity. While the Bay State delegates to the convention in San Francisco fought Quinn's election, General Edwards said that Quinn had given them his word that he was no longer connected with the Klan.

"There shouldn't have been anything said about it," said General Edwards. "It should have been kept quiet, for the good of the legion."

"But I do not believe that it should be kept quiet," said Congressman Gallivan, "and I, for one, will not keep quiet about it. I shall tell about it on the floor of Congress.

"At the San Francisco convention," said General Edwards. "Quinn told General Logan and me that he was not a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and we were satisfied that he was speaking the truth.

DOYLE PRAISES QUINN.

"There is nothing else to be said except that the Klan is no issue in the Legion affairs in Massachusetts. Our delegation went to San Francisco with a resolution condemning the Klan. We ended by voting overwhelmingly, along with the rest of the convention, for a resolution condemning the Klan, which was even stronger than our State delegation's resolution.

"The Massachusetts Legion stands by the Legion preamble. We have no place for bigotry. We got all the Klan talk out of our system at San Francisco. The country knows how we stand regarding the Klan. The issue, as far as the Legion goes, is dead."

MRS. MORRILL WILL FIGHT FOR DAUGHTER

Mrs. F. Morrill

Mrs. Florence Morrill, beautiful Brookline society woman who lost her case when her husband was granted a divorce on grounds of infidelity, cares nothing for her freedom or her husband's money. For her children she would sacrifice everything.

"I will yield everything else, she declared, but the children are mine and no one shall take them from me.

"One of us had to get a divorce," she said bitterly. "If Leon Morrill was not gentleman enough to let me secure it, what was the use of my fighting?

"My son, Russell, is old enough to choose between us. But I would not give up Marguerite for everything in the world. She and I are the closest pals and to lose her would be to lose everything in life that is worth while."

OIL BOY'S CLOTHES AND SET HIM AFIRE

Nashville, Nov. 14.—Three boys, ranging in age from thirteen to nineteen, were arrested and a fourth was being sought by police in connection with the death of Homer Gunn, eighteen, who charged that his companions poured gasoline over his body and set fire to his clothing. The boys under arrest gave their names as Stewart Harris, Raymond Pope and William Puryear. They said Gunn's clothing caught fire when a match was dropped accidentally while he was filling the tank of an automobile.

NATION TWICE HAS EXPRESSED CONFIDENCE IN PRES. COOLIDGE

MAKES STARTLING PROGRESS WITHOUT AID OF LEADERS

ARTICLE II.

Calvin Coolidge's chance and what will he do?

Calvin Coolidge became President untrammelled by serious obligations to anyone is shown in the second article of a series written for the Boston American by John T. Lambert, who has intimately followed the career of the White House executive.

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Copyright, 1923, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Henry Ford recently said to a friend: "President Coolidge himself has a splendid background, but he is surrounded by a bunch of scamps."

There have been two demonstrations of the confidence which the public has for him. When he suddenly became head of this country there was not a tremor of public fear. The public was ready to trail along with him, not hesitating to give him a chance to make good.

The other illustration of his strength was at the Chicago convention which nominated Coolidge for the Vice-Presidency. His nomination came like a bolt out of the blue.

OPPOSED BY LODGE

Messrs. Lodge, Weeks and other conspicuous Republicans from his own State were against him. He knows it. Lenroot was slated to be made Vice-President and the Lodges and Weekses had joined hands with the old guardsmen to "deliver" to the Wisconsin Senator.

Present day talk that Senator Lodge and Secretary Weeks always have been regarded as the faithful friends and allies of the President is "bosh." Prominent Massachusetts Republicans served notice upon Mr. Weeks at Chicago that his anti-Coolidge tactics would never be forgiven.

He was finally forced to retire as Republican national committeeman from Massachusetts when control over the Republican State Committee there was wrested away from the Weeks-Lodge forces by the younger Republicans of the Coolidge and Governor Cox factions, consolidated by William H. Butler.

The Republican State Committee elected Mr. Weeks' successor. Mr. Butler was chosen.

AVOIDS PARTY QUARREL.

So intense had the feeling sprung up against Senator Lodge in the Coolidge faction that they prepared to defeat the Senator's own choice for Congressman in his own district. Senator Lodge was supporting Ransom Pingree of Haverhill.

The Coolidge forces decided to project Charles O. Bailey, an ardent Coolidge supporter, into the race. President Coolidge, however, is supposed to have sent word to his Bay State friends to avoid a party quarrel on that issue at that time, but Bailey and the other Coolidge lieutenants went over to Colonel A. Piatt Andrews and he was nominated for Congress over Mr. Lodge's choice, Pingree.

It may thus be seen that President Coolidge has made a good deal of progress in this world without the help of the superior statesmen of his party. He became President untrammeled by serious obligations to anyone.

Another element of strength for him is the native independence which enables him to do the most unexpected at the most unexpected time. He is a conservative—at times reactionary—who will make the most unusual ventures into practical progressivism.

IS PARADOX

The major part of one of his inaugural addresses to the Legislature there was devoted to a recommendation to establish maternity benefits.

Maternity care is now a reality in the Bay State. When Alexandra Karl seconded Coolidge's nomination for President at Chicago she mentioned his maternity benefit recom- minimum wage law for women and children in his own State. He signed the eight-hour day law there against the protests of the manufacturers in his own party, one of whom was William M. Butler, then, as now one of his chief advisors. Railroad trainmen credit him with the passage of their full-crew bill.

None of which is intended to convey the impression that the liberals anywhere regard him as a progressive. They docket him as their most eminent foe.

Lynde Cochranes Plan to Winter on the Riviera, Reports Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

VIVACIOUS Mrs. Lynde Cochrane and her three children are en route for the Riviera, where they have taken a villa for the Winter.

It was only a few years ago that Boston's first family contingent sat up and took notice when Lynde Cochrane married Miss Vivian Wessell of New York. The bride was a musical comedy actress, and a most accomplished one at that.

When she became Mrs. Cochrane, she abondoned the stage for society. She is petite, with wavy brown hair and merry gray-blue eyes. Last Spring, when the Vincent Club girls presented "Wrangle Island," their annual show, Mrs. Cochrane played the part of a Russian princess.

The Cochranes, who spent the Summer on the North Shore at Hamilton, have three children—Nancy and Lucy and a son named after his father.

MRS. A. LYNDE COCHRANE

MISS MABEL HOLDEN, daughter of Joshua B. Holdens of Nahant, will take the part of a shepherdess in the dance from "The Winter's Tale," one of the tableaux to be given in aid of the James Marsh Jackson League.

Society folk are staging these tableaux on the afternoon and evening of November 28 at Jordan Hall, and those in charge have planned what promises to be an entertaining program.

CONFIRMED globe trotters that they are, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Whiting of No. 323 Beacon street are deserting Boston around the first of January, when they will sail for the West Indies. They plan to spend quite a while in Mexico.

The Whitings are seldom in Boston for an entire season, though last Winter, I believe, they did spend at home. One of their most recent travelings included Russia, and upon her return to America Mrs. Whiting did everything in her power to help the starving people of that country.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS AMORY and Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr. (Caroline Fessenden) of Boston, have been spending a few days in New York at the Ritz-Carlton.

Also at the Ritz are Mr. and Mrs. James Cummings Barr, who have a host of connections in the Hub, their former residence, and where they are frequent visitors.

BLONDE-HAIRED LOUISE FESSENDEN is to be one of the "orange girls" who will sell refreshments at the Shakespeare festival which society folk are putting on at the Copley-Plaza on Friday evening.

S. Hooper-Hooper is to be master of ceremonies at the affair, which a host of notables are sponsoring.

OLDEST IRISHMAN IS DEAD AT 120

Dublin, Nov. 14.—John Despard of Cashel has just died at the authenticated age of 120. So far as is known, he was the oldest person in Ireland as far back as records go. The last yearly census reported the deaths in one year of 123 persons 100 or more years old, going far to prove the Irish a record long-lived race.

WOULD END RAIL LABOR BOARD

Washington, Nov. 14.—Meeting here today at the call of Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, heads of sixteen railroad labor organizations discussed legislative proposals to be submitted at the coming session of Congress.

The chief proposal involves a change in the labor sections of the present transportation act, which would virtually abolish the railroad labor board.

As tentatively worked out and approved by some members of the group, the proposed amendments would set up a board of mediation and conciliation to function in railroad labor disputes, on which the roads and the railroad organizations would be equally represented.

RED CROSS WARNS AGAINST SWINDLE

Every safeguard against swindling of the public under the cloak of the Red Cross has been taken in the enrollment drive now in progress in Boston and eighteen surrounding towns and cities. The point was stressed by leaders yesterday that no one is enrolled without receiving a receipt, while a certificate of membership is filed with the local headquarters, No. 73 Newbury street.

All solicitors are equipped with numbered certificates each with a stub which is given to the member thus enrolled, as a receipt and in every case the solicitor is held accountable.

ORIGINAL SCRIPTS OF AUTHOR CONRAD BRING RECORD PRICES

New York, Nov. 14.—Literary collectors are amazed at the prices paid for original manuscripts of the works of Joseph Conrad, the Polish-English novelist, at the sale of the collection of John Quinn, a New York lawyer and collector.

Rapid-fire bidding ran the manuscripts up to $5300 in one instance and nearly to that figure in others. It is probable that some of the manuscripts brought more at this sale that the publisher paid for the copyrights to the books.

Dr. A. S. Rosenbach of New York and Philadelphia paid $5300 for the manuscript of "Almayer's Folly," Conrad's first book. The first script of "The Nigger of the Narcissus," which Conrad termed "the story by which I stand or fall as a creative artist," and which he once said he would give to the British Museum when he dies, brought $5100 from Dr. Rosenbach. The script of a short story brought $1500.

Moscow—The most Rev. Dr. Tikhon is suffering from a physical breakdown following his recent efforts to regain control over the Russian Orthodox Church.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Jad Salts to Flush Kidneys if Your Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness and bladder irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

MORE STRINGENT ALIEN LAWS URGED BY WESTERN STATES

Washington, Nov. 14.—More drastic provisions for exclusion from the United States of aliens ineligible to citizenship will be urged upon Congress at its coming session by Senators and Representatives from a number of Western States.

Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, and Representative Johnson of Washington, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, announced today that a conference of Western Congressmen soon would be called to form a unit to get behind the legislation.

Senator Shortridge said the Supreme Court decision this week, holding constitutional Washington and California laws preventing aliens ineligible to citizenship from holding land, undoubtedly would give impetus to the exclusion provision as a part of a general immigration bill.

'SCANDALS' ARE RIOT OF SONG AND COMEDY

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

GEORGE WHITE'S "Scandals" are anything—and everything—but scandalous. It may not be exactly fair to Mr. White to suggest that possibly moral uplift had laid a firm hand on his present undertaking in girl and nature entertainment, but that was the compelling impression you gathered during an enjoyable, melodious evening at the Colonial. In this 1923 edition you could see at a glance that reform and art were running hand in hand through the twenty-two scenes of color, comedy and song.

GORGEOUS COSTUMES.

Mr. White appears to have drifted away from the familiar rule of revue making, abandoning the dance for song and substituting gorgeous costuming for the near nudity that promotes its own advertising and clogs the box office lines.

Let it not be supposed, however, that there is an absence of life, gaiety and flimsy raiment at the Colonial, for there is a full measure of exactly what the doctor orders for tired business men—medicine for out-of-town buyers. But there were only fleeting glimpses of scantily attired girls.

Melody ran an even, steady course through the evening, songs piling upon one another in a fashion that must have spread dismay among the hard working musicians in the orchestra. There was no rest for the weary in that corner of the theatre. It was not until Winnie Lightner entered the proceedings all by herself that the audience unloosened its enthusiasm. She began modestly and ended in a riot, and was followed by a string of songbirds which included Olive Vaughn, Helen Hudson, Beulah Berson, Alice Weaver, Richard Bold and Donald McBride. Except for Miss Lightner's numbers the musical theme of the evening ran strongly to sentiment and flowers.

COMEDIANS KEEP BUSY.

The parading comedians were Newton Alexander, Tom Patricola and Lester Allen, who served their wares in good burlesque fashion.

In scenic embellishment Mr. White's "Scandals" kept pace with any edition that has gone before, and in costuming it easily outshone the most brilliant of his former efforts. The Jewel Shop number presented costumes of rare beauty—possibly the most effective ever shown on a local stage.

If George White's "Scandals" has turned modest and respectable the show still reveals a dash of old-time undraped glory in its living curtain. No matter how you view it, however, there is nothing scandalous in these "Scandals."

BULGAR ASSASSIN IS ACQUITTED

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 14. (A.P.)—Atanas Nikoloff, the twenty-six-year-old Bulgarian on trial on the charge of assassinating M. Daskaloff, the Bulgarian Ambassador in Prague on August 26 last, was acquitted today. The Supreme Court has yet to pass upon the verdict and may reject it.

Nikoloff confessed the crime, saying it was by order of the secret Macedonian organization to which he belonged and which also had placed three other ministers of Bulgaria on the death list. M. Daskaloff was ordered killed, the accused said, because he opposed the Macedonian separatist movement and had signed the Nish convention for better relations between Bulgaria and Jugoslavia.

STAR AND EX-HUSBAND IN 'FRIENDLY' REUNION

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 14. (C.N.S.)—"Just a friendly reconciliation with no present idea of re-marriage," James Young, noted film director, told friends today following publication of a story that he and his third wife, Clara Whipple Young, had been seen taking long walks in shady lanes near Hollywood. The Youngs were divorced in October, 1921. Rida Johnson Young, the playwright, was the director's first wife and Clara Kimball Young, the actress, his second.

HELD AS PERJURER ON INCOME TAX

New York, Nov. 14.—Solomon Noveck, head of a shirt manufacturing house, surrendered to Federal authorities today on a charge of perjury in connection with filing the firm's income tax returns and was held in $20,000 for trial. It is alleged there was a discrepancy of $144,000 in the tax returns filed in 1919 and 1920. Noveck was recently sued for an accounting by majority stockholders of his firm.

STINGY SPOUSE BANNED MEAT, WIFE CHARGES

Leominster, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Mary Murray, thirty-seven years old, who has brought suit for divorce against her husband, Stanley prosperous engraver and designer, accuses him of being a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," a wife beater, the most close-fisted man in Leominster" and a few other things.

Mrs. Mary Murray

Furthermore, the four-month-bride promises that charges of a sensational nature will be made public when the case is heard, which by advice of her attorney, she refused to divulge.

On one occasion, the wife said, when she asked her husband for money, he "shoved a revolver in my face" with the threat:

"If you ask me for money again, you will get this.

Mrs. Murray charges cruel and abusive treatment and has placed an attachment on her husband's property for $5,000.

She first met him when she went to work for him as his housekeeper while he was ill. So disagreeable was he at times, Mrs. Murray said, that finally she left. Then, she said, he wrote to her apologizing for his abuse and asking her to marry him, promising her a good home and loving care.

"He wanted me to go to work and pay him back for the diamond engagement ring and wedding ring he gave me," Mrs. Murray continued.

"During the time that I lived with him I had no meat unless I bought it myself and cooked it on the sly. His principal diet was pea soup, bean soup, beans and a little hash. I was forced to use canned milk, as he said it went further and cost less."

PROFESSOR HAS WON BOSTON WOMAN

A romance which began among the snow-clad Swiss Alps will culminate in the marriage, November 24, of Professor Russell D. Kilborne of Dartmouth College and Mrs. Jane K. Stephans, prominent in Back Bay society. Both appeared at City Hall and took out the marriage license.

Traveling in Europe on a Summer vacation, Mrs. Stephans was introduced to Professor Kilborne at a mountainside resort in Switzerland. It was a case of love at first sight. They spent the remainder of the Summer, with several other tourists, traveling through Europe, and recently returned to the United States. Professor Kilborne returned to Dartmout, but found time to press his suit for the hand of his fair lady.

Mrs. Stephans is a graduate of a fashionable art designing school and before meeting Professor Kilborne had planned to visit Florence and Rome to continue her studies in interior decorating. She now resides at No. 20 Charlesgate West.

Professor Kilborne is instructor of banking and finance at Dartmouth. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is prominent in college circles and fraternities. He is a member of a prominent family in Pennsylvania.

DOUBTS PEARY'S DISCOVERY OF NORTH POLE

Montreal, Nov. 14 (C.N.S.).—The North Pole has not yet been discovered. Commander Robert E. Peary's story of his trip to the geographical pole cannot be accepted for lack of even the elementary observations which would tend to confirm it.

This was the view expressed today by Canada's most famous Arctic explorer, Captain J. E. Bernier.

It was extracted from him with the greatest difficulty, as the unassuming navigator was reluctant to say anything which would seem to cast discredit on the memory of his dead confrere. Bernier was lavish in his praise of the work done by Peary during the latter's long life of Arctic exploration and paid high tribute to his endurance and courage, but finally admitted his disbelief that the American explorer had actually reached the pole.

COULDN'T EXPLAIN.

Captain Bernier based his conclusion on the fact that Peary on his return was unable to give variations from the time he left Captain Robert A. Bartlett around 88.2, and during his absence of about twenty days took, according to his own admission, only one observation and that was when he was in his estimation only three miles from the pole.

He said he had considerable correspondence with Peary in an effort to obtain from him the variations and found the American's reply unsatisfactory.

"Peary took no soundings and could bring back no information of the slightest value," he said. "He left the world in as complete ignorance about the Pole as it was when he started on his expedition."

TOOK ONLY AN ESKIMO.

"If he had only brought some sediment from the bottom, it would have been of value," remarked Captain Bernier, adding it was unfortunate that Bartlett, who had been Peary's advance agent, should have been left behind and that Peary took only Eskimos with him.

"Surely in the discovery of the Pole there was enough honor to be shared by half a dozen men," said Captain Bernier.

SHOE WORKERS MOVE IN LYNN SHOE ROW

The joint council composed of delegates from seventeen locals of the Amalgamated Shoe Workers of America voted to ask the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration to go to Lynn and settle the situation in the shoe industry so that manufacturers can make a cheaper grade of shoe at a reasonable profit.

Several locals failed to act upon the recommendation of the joint council to give the manufacturers a ten per cent. reduction on prices paid for various operations on a cheap grade shoe.

While the more active shoe manufacturers declare the high cost of labor is the principal cause of the falling off in profits, other manufacturers declare the exorbitant rents paid constitute the principal difficulty.

"A Car Is a New Use for Brains"

Claims a Foremost American Psychologist

BRAIN POWER brings success. The man who "uses his head" gets promotion, increased earnings, position and fame. Anything that puts more mental capacity into a man's head helps him toward greater success. One of America's best-known psychologists asserts that an automobile may help a man make keener mental adjustments and promote his brain power.

Owning a car means not only a wider mental outlook, but a fuller enjoyment of the beauties and blessings of life.

"A car is a new use for brains," says the psychologist, who speaks from wide and expert knowledge of the human mind and how to use it most effectively. "A new use for brains is a new enlargement of life—a new addition—as a builder would say.

"The mental alertness which is essential lifts a man on to a higher plane at once. A new effort is required to adjust the driver to his car, to the men who supply oil and parts and accessories, and by no means the last or the least of adjustments is the adjustment to the law and the traffic policeman.

"There is no reason why we should avoid the increased mental capacity that comes with a car. We must gear our lives to the highest—not to the lowest. We must take our cue from those who succeed—not from those who make a fizzle out of things.

"Now, while the seller of cars cannot hand out a package of brain force with each car, he does hand out to the man of limited or unusual means and mental calibre the one big chance to put to work at once hidden forces of his mind."

The amount you pay for a car is not always the measure of its value to you. There are real bargains every day in the Classified "Automobile" columns of The Boston American. The service they have seen only proves how serviceable they really are.

Read over the details of the offerings listed below in the "Automobile" columns today, and then call up the owners and dealers and ask for thorough test. Satisfaction is assured.

AMERICA WILL TRY TO LISTEN IN ON LONDON DURING RADIO WEEK

Broadcasting stations in England will make a concerted effort to reach listeners in America during Radio Week, November 25 to December 1. The eight stations in England, under the control of the British Broadcasting Company, will send out the same program for an hour beginning November 25 at 10 p. m., Eastern standard time, which is 3 a. m. in London.

It is possible that some American stations will join in sending a return programme chosen especially for the occasion and alternate with the English stations throughout the week.

While the larger American stations are heard regularly in England by fans who listen in at about 3 o'clock in the morning, it is unusual for Americans to hear from Europe. The difference in time usually brings daylight to interfere with transmission, but on this occasion the best possible time at night has been chosen.

The English stations are: 2LO, London, 370 meters; 5IT, Birmingham, 425; 2ZY, Manchester, 385; 5NO, Newcastle, 400; 5SC, Glasgow, 415, and 5WA, Cardiff, 353.

It is possible that the new stations in Aberdeen and Bournemouth will also be in operation.

Xmas Basket Fund Endorsed By Cardinal O'Connell

Prelate Sends $25 to Aid in Buying Dinners for Needy Ones

Cardinal O'Connell has endorsed the Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American, which provides free dinners to thousands of needy families each year at Christmas in their homes.

In addition to giving his wholehearted endorsement to the work of the fund, Cardinal O'Connell sent his personal check for $25.

PRAISES GOOD WORK.

In his letter to the Christmas Fund Director, the Cardinal says he sincerely hopes the appeal for funds will succeed. He adds that the good work accomplished in previous years by the American's Fund has been remarkable. He commends the Fund to everyone, especially to persons who are enriched with the world's goods and asks that everyone help in this great work of charity by spreading as much real joy among the needy at Christmas as possible.

The Cardinal asks that the blessed spirit of giving inspire persons to contribute to the Christmas Fund so that every case which comes to the attention of this newspaper may be properly taken care of. The Cardinal's endorsement speaks for itself and should impress anyone not familiar with the work done by this Fund during the past nine years, of its worth and magnitude.

BANDIT SHOOTS MAN AND FIGHTS DUEL WITH COP

New York, Nov. 14.—Two score patrolmen and detectives were beating the bushes along the Harlem River Speedway at midnight for a bandit who mortally shot a drugstore owner and afterwards engaged in a thrilling "Indian fashion" duel with a motorcycle officer in the underbrush.

The bandit held up the owner, Jacob Bankhoff, and his clerk, Clemence Deverix, but finding only $20 in the cash register demanded more money. Bankhoff reached for his pocket to get the bills, but the bandit mistook this for an attempt to get a pistol and fired.

The motorcycle officer, James Reynolds, with his machine headlight out, was waiting in the darkness of the boulevard for speeders when he saw a taxi whiz by. He went after it, thinking it simply a speeder, and when fifty feet behind switched on his headlight. This brought fire from the taxi and the officer stopped and went into the underbrush, the bandit doing likewise.

They shot at each other, aiming for the spot whence the opposing pistol fire came, until Reynolds' ammunition was exhausted, and the bandit escaped.

The drug clerk suffered a critical heart attack from the shock. Both he and Bankhoff were taken to a hospital where it was believed the latter would die.

MILL COLONY THREATENED BY FIRE

Berlin, N. H., Nov. 14.—Fire of mysterious origin in the Krean Krisp paper mill, one of the largest paper mills in New England, threatened to destroy a group of more than a dozen paper mills here early today.

More than 100 men were working in the plant when the fire was discovered. Lumber jacks sleeping in nearby bunk houses rallied to the aid of the firemen and employes in fighting the flames.

Sulphur and other inflammable materials and chemicals in the mill soon caught fire and rendered useless the dozen streams of water playing on the building. After more than two hours, the fire was extinguished with chemicals.

Officials of the Brown Paper Company, owners of the Krean Krisp mill, were unable to estimate the loss. They said, however, the heaviest loss would probably be from time contracts on which the mills had been running night and day in an effort to fill.

'LIARS!'- FORBES CRIES AT HIS ACCUSERS

Washington, Nov. 14. (I.N.S.)—Col. Charles R. Forbes, former director of the U. S. Veterans Bureau, today branded as lies all charges of graft and corruption in the award of hospital contracts during his administration.

Testifying before the Senate investigating committee Forbes twice shouted "lie" to accusations made by Elias H. Mortimer of Philadelphia, his chief accuser. On one occasion, Forbes was so overcome with anger, the committee was forced to quiet him.

Mortimer sat directly opposite Forbes and the two men glared at each other

DIDN'T BORROW $5,000.

Forbes also branded as a lie Mortimer's testimony that he had loaned the former director $5,000 in connection with the awarding of a contract.

"It is absolutely a lie," was Forbes' reply.

Forbes' denial of graft, corruption or favoritism in awarding contracts followed the reading of section of previous testimony given by Mortimer, in which the Philadelphian charged he had obtained a list of hospital sites in advance, so that the Thompson & Black Co. of St. Louis would have an advantage.

"Are these statements of Mortimer correct?" asked Colonel J. S. Easby-Smith, Forbes' counsel.

"They are absolutely false," Forbes replied.

"Was there ever any confidential lists of hospital sites?"

"There never was and he knows it," said Forbes shaking his finger at Mortimer.

"Was there any arrangement giving a preference to one contractor?"

"Absolutely none. All contracts were awarded on a competitive basis."

SAWYER'S BIG ORDER.

Charles E. Sawyer, personal physician to President Harding, sought to obtain $459,000 worth of government supplies, including whiskey, for a soldiers' home at Dayton, O., for a soldiers' home at Dayton, O., Forbes testified today.

Forbes said he had blocked the removal of these supplies from the supply depot at Perryville, Md., thus widening the breach between himself and Sawyer. He introduced a memorandum showing the quantities of supplies requisitioned by Sawyer for the Dayton institution. This list was headed with an item calling for $12,000 worth of whiskey. The list also called for 50,000 blankets, 50,000 bath towels, 50,000 hand towels and $100,000 worth of sheets, although there were less than 1,000 men at the home. Another item on the list was for twenty barrels of ethyl alcohol

REFUSED TO FILL ORDER.

"Did you fill this order?" Forbes was asked.

"I refused to fill it."

"Why?"

"The quantites were very much in excess of what was necessary."

"Why did you not fill it in part?"

"TheDayton Home already had its share of surplus supplies from the Veterans' Bureau."

Reverting to the sale of goods at Perryville, Forbes made the flat statement that he assumed complete responsibility for the transaction.

The Dayton Soldiers' Home referred to by Forbes is the central branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. The members are understood to be mostly veterans of the Civil War.

WEEPS AS SHE PLEADS FOR ANIMAL

Lost: "Governor," the only Dane-German mastiff in New England. Grey and huge.

Will the finder please return him to Miss Virginia Katherine Dodge, Radcliffe senior and Boston society girl of No. 497 Beacon street; and receive one great, big, genuine smile.

"A revengeful policeman has taken my Governor," sobbed pretty twenty-three-year-old Miss Dodge, who says she can't sleep nights worrying about her dog.

A few months ago Miss Dodge forgot her yellow "chummy" roadster on Boylston street while she busily sipped tea and gossiped over the table with one of her sister debutantes. Hours passed and still the roadster remained on "the street."

An alert traffic officer timed the car, gave it the benefit of the doubt, but finally decided to tag it. Upon approaching the automobile he saw a great big dog, comfortably seated in front eyeing him, so much so, that the officer of the law decided to let his duty slide a bit.

More hours passed and the officer's patience became exhausted. After many attempts to tag the car without disturbing the otherwise peaceful mind of "Governor," he succeeded, haled Miss Dodge into court and gave her the chance to offer the alibi that she "totally forgot the car and Governor." She was ever so sorry. She'd take particular care it should never happen again. The case was placed on file.

"Will that officer please give him back to me? Or anybody else who may have him? Thanks," she added.

SERUM TEST TO FIX KLAN KILLER'S SANITY

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 14.—Announcement that the serum test was being used to determine whether P. E. Fox, charged with murder in connection with the shooting of W. S. Coburn, Ku Klux Klan attorney, is insane is the latest development in the case.

Specialists are examining a specimen of the spinal fluid taken from Fox and the laboratory analysis will determine whether Fox is insane. Indications are that the trial of Fox, set for December 13, will develop into a battle of alienists.

WIFE TRAPS MATE; GETS $50,000

Erring Husband Forced to Buy 'Forgiveness' When Caught With Another Woman

New York, Nov. 14.—Trailed by his wife to a room in an Atlantic City hotel, which he occupied with another woman, Augustus W. Clarke was forced to buy forgiveness at the price of a $50,000 estate in Great Neck, L. I., now used by his widow, Mrs. Celia L. Clarke, as a Summer home.

This was the allegation made before Surrogate Foley by Edgar Bromberger, attorney for Charles B. Clark, No. 1944 Loring place, the Bronx, brother of the deceased, in an argument on a motion to have the widow removed as temporary administrator of the estate

Bromberger said:

"Mrs. Clarke afterward openly boasted of her exploit, remarking:

"'This party cost him just $50,000.'

"Yet she comes before your Honor and tries to convince you that their married life was one of bliss."

Bromberger told the court that Clarke, prominent auctioneer and art connoiseur, died in England last August. He spoke of Mrs. Clarke and Edmond T. Duval, of Douglastown, L. I., who at one time boarded in the Clarke home.

The motion contends that Mrs. Clarke's continuance as administratrix of the estate imperils the assets, which are placed by her at $150,000, although estimated by her brother-in-law, who is testing the will, to be $500,000.

John J. Curtin, counsel for Mrs. Clarke, declared Charles B. Clarke had been brought to this country by his brother and always had been the recipient of his bounty.

X-RAY BURNS GLANDS OF NOTED EXPERT

New York, Nov. 14.—Another sacrifice to science was recorded today when it was announced that Dr. I. MacMunn Holly, famous X-ray expert, had lost the glands under his arm, through X-ray experimentation.

He was operated on ten days ago, and has returned to his home, where he is undergoing radium treatment

It was a recurrence of these burns that necessitated the recent operation. Once a person has been burned by the X-ray the recovery is a matter of doubt. The rays burn the issues and glands throughout the body, leaving their victim with a lower vitality

Suitcase Murder Defendants to Face Bar Within Two Weeks, Says Feeney

Early trial of Dr. William M. Robb, Back Bay physician, and Dr. Dalva H. Swope of Brockton, in connection with suitcase mystery wherein the headless, mutilated corpse of Mrs. Alice Walschendorf, Bridgewater mother of four, was found stuffed into automobile suitcases was foreshadowed by new activities today.

Dr. Frank McCarthy of Milton, engaged by defense counsel as a medical expert, went to Lowell to examine the murdered woman's remains. They are in an undertaker's there.

John P. Feeney, counsel for Dr. Robb, was in East Cambridge court house making arrangements for his appearance there tomorrow or the next day when District Attorney Arthur K. Reading will appear to answer the defense demands that—

The State tell where the crime was committed—

And where

Within two weeks, Mr. Feeney said today, he expected the trial to begin

Dr. Robb is charged with first degree murder, Dr. Swope as an accessory. They have been locked up in East Cambridge jail for two months.

It is charged that Mrs. Wolschendorf was the victim of illegal surgery followed by mutilation and an attempt to discard her hacked corpse in the Merrimac River near the Tyngsboro bridge.

Dr. Robb was once ordered out of New Hampshire for malpractice. Mrs. Wolschendorf was last seen alive entering his Back Bay office.

Both doctors, it was said today, are anxious for a speedy trial. They are visited almost daily by their wives, Mrs. Robb having moved from her mother's home in New Hampshire to be near her husband

SENATOR MOVES TO BAR STOCK TRADING

Washington, Nov. 14.—Margin trading in stocks, bonds, grain and cotton would be prohibited by a bill which Senator King, Democrat, Utah, will introduce as soon as Congress meets

"The money of the country, which should be available for agricultural and industrial purposes," he said, "is now held in large quantity in New York city to finance margin trading. By prohibiting such trading that money would be released for more beneficial use."

BELIEVE ROOF FIRE SET BY LOCOMOTIVE

A spark from a passing New Haven locomotive is believed to have been responsible for a ire on the roof of the dwelling of Mrs. Mary Lane, No. 3 Clayton place, Dorchester, today. The fire was discovered before it had gained much headway. It was extinguished with a slight loss.

CHELSEA MENACED

SCENE OF $75,000 BLAZE IN CHELSEA'S BUSINESS SECTION

Several firemen were injured, among them Deputy Chief Earnest Wheadon (inset), in fighting serious blaze on Broadway, the main artery of travel in Chelsea. Street car traffic between Lynn, Revere and Boston was seriously disrupted

FIRE MARSHAL PROBING BLAZE AT CHELSEA

Fire Marshal Thomas Thompson of Chelsea visited the Wintman Block, which was swept by a $75,000 fire of mysterious origin, to determine the cause of the blaze.

Eight families were driven to the street and Deputy Fire Chief Wheadon and eleven firemen of Engine 8 narrowly escaped death in the fire which for a time threatened the business section of Chelsea.

The fire started in a dressing room off the stage of the Chelsea Theatre and quickly spread to the roof. A shower of plaster and lathes covered the firemen and warned them of the collapse of the roof.

They escaped with scratches and bruises about their faces and shoulders.

Vice President Shaw of the National City Bank ordered business suspended in the bank when the fire was first discovered. All employes joined in gathering currency and valuable papers into the vaults before leaving the building.

Within a few minutes after firemen got on the scene the bank and other stores on the street floor were filled with smoke and later flooded.

Fire Chief David M. Hudson summoned aid of Everett and Revere fire departments. Business blocks in the vicinity were drenched with water to prevent the blaze from spreading.

Thirty-five autos stored in the Broadway garage adjoining the theatre on Fourth street were run out to the street as a measure of safety.

All street car traffic on Broadway was at a standstill for two hours and travel between Chelsea and East Boston was held up.

Eleven shops in the building on Broadway were smoked out and drenched with water from the burning auditorium which was located on the [illegible] floor

Police [illegible] guarded the bank during the night.

Cashier [illegible] A. Clark expects that the [illegible] in the vaults will be undamaged from the heat and water

Brighton Sheep Stir Up Triple Row of Neighbors

Out in North Brighton John Harry of Smith street is trying to combat the high cost of living by keeping a small flock of sheep. Various neighbors are battling the rising cost of provender by raising cabbages and things. The sheep ate up the cabbages and neighborhood rows result.

Today John Harry was in the Brighton Court, with Mrs Jeanette Silva asking Judge Connolly for a warrant against him on the grounds that he maintains a nuisance, and Joseph DeGloria, who wanted to enter a civil suit against Harry.

After listening to an animated dispute in three different dialects, Judge Connolly gave Harry until December 1 to dispose of the troublesome sheep

The three neighbors went home, still carrying on their high-pitched conversation, in which each paid no attention to what the other said.

BULLETS RIDDLE K. K. K. STORE SIGN

[illegible], N. Y., Nov. 14.—E. V. Kruger today reported to the police that during the night a third attempt had been made to shoot down "The K. K. K. Store" sign which hangs over the entrance to his fruit and vegetable stand in Seaford. Finding the sign riddled with bullets, Kruger turned over to the authorities the names of the persons he though responsible.

THRONG SEES COPS BREAK IN APARTMENT

The Brighton police today created a sensation by entering a large apartment building No. [illegible] Commonwealth avenue near the corner of Long avenue in Allston by means of a ladder and arresting [illegible] Anderson, a coal dealer, and Louise Cook. The couple were in Anderson's apartment on the third floor.

The ladder was too short to reach the third floro, so Officers Phillips and Hamlet of the vice squad climbed to the balcony of the second floor pulled up the ladder and thus gained the third floor balcony. They were heard by occupants of the second floor, who thrust their heads out of windows and shouted for help.

A crowd gathered. Automobiles stopped in the street and the officers made their entry into the flat in thep resence of a big audience.

Louise Cook locked herself in a room and the police had to force the door to secure her.

Anderson gave his age as fifty-six and Louise hers as forty. In the Brighton District Court today Attorney John F. McDonald appeared for the couple and asked for a continuance until December 15, which was granted.

"SKYSCRAPERS TO BE CURSED" IN FUTURE

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Future generations will curse skyscrapers, according to A. [illegible] Davies, member of the London County Council.

"New York, meant by nature as a harbor, [illegible] other resources, [illegible] vertically," Mr. Davies says. "With [illegible] there is no [illegible] for creating vertical slum districts, shutting out light and air."

Public ownership of transportation could direct the growth of population, he says.

NO SMOKING RULE GETS DERISION

Greater Boston Students Join With Vassar in Defi of Authorities

In perfect agreement with their sisters from Vassar that banning smoking and the exhibition of bare knees is bringing about the violation of more important rulings, local college girls maintain that the two are harmless and strictly in keeping with modern tendencies.

"Do we smoke?" Radcliffe girls looked at the reporter in amazement. Such ignorance on the writer's part, apparently. "We say we do," they echoed in unison.

"Where? Here. How? That's a secret. Why? Because we like it and because we want to and because it is smart to and because old fashioned college authorities say we ought not to."

SHOWS HER KNEES.

Radcliffe has the honor system, whereby a girl is morally obliged to report herself for any breach of conduct social or academic. Smoking is taboo, but bare knees are not even mentioned, so incredible as it [illegible] Radcliffe girls would show 'em, the girls say.

[illegible] they beckoned the reporter to gaze at a perfect pair of bare knees. Incidentally, the reporter is a woman.

"The authorities know we smoke, but they can't stop us. Just about a month ago they were going to take the ban off smoking, but it didn't go through and the sign 'No Smoking' still hangs on the wall," said another.

Across the river at Boston University it was found that dormitory smoking means expulsion. However, the 'evil' is not done away with, for the real college girl lives at her 'frat house and there she may smoke and bare her knees to her heart's content.

SCORNED AT WELLESLEY.

At Wellesley the honor code is very much emphasized.

The Wellesley College Handbook decrees:

"Since the privileges of the individual must be subordinated to the interests of the community, students may not smoke while living under the regulations of the Wellesley College Government Association."

And concerning attire on the campus:

"Bloomers may be worn without a long coat on the campus and in the dormitories."

"Did you ever hear of such idiotic rulings in your life?" Wellesley girls would [illegible] an answer. "No wonder the girls go wild when they get out of the college halls for a night or so. When taboos like this are imposed and girls like us have been doing it right along, it is just like keeping birds in a cage. We smoke outside, we might as well smoke inside.

"And we do for that matter. We do whenever we can. You are never guilty until you are caught. Well we'll keep it up until our luck runs out. For a while they took down the ban. Then they put it up. It is like a game of 'put and take.' But someday when woman gets her just due the girls will smoke along with the men everywhere and anywhere."

According to girls from B. U., Radcliffe, Simmons and Wellesley, measures have been taken to do away with the honor code.

MOTHER OF 15 HACKS COP WITH MEAT AXE

Worcester, Nov. 14.—Charged with attacking a police officer with a meat cleaver with intent to kill, Josephine, aged fifty-five years, wife of Michael Wieczek, and mother of fifteen children, was held in $1,000 bonds in district court today to await Grand Jury action. The alleged assault occurred during a liquor raid on the Wieczek store.

LIVE PIG FOR GIANT PYTHON WHO IS STARVING TO DEATH

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—A giant python at the Philadelphia Zoo has gone eight months without food, because it will want nothing but a live animal. Keepers have refrained from feeding the serpent through fear that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals might object. This fear has been dispelled and next week the python will be fed a live pig weighing fifty pounds.

Normally the python eats every four months, its keeper said. Four months past mel-time, it grew thinner and thinner. The keeper appealed to Frank B. Rutherford, manager of the S. P. C. A. who said, "the snake must be fed, no matter how. While it may be cruelty to let the pig suffer such a death, it is far more cruel to let them expire from starvation."

Rutherford declared the pig would suffer a humane death. "When the porker is put into the reptile's cage there is only a sudden spring, a flash of coils, and the pig's life is extinct in an instant," he said.

For the Cough That Sticks

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got To Make Your Own. Use Parmint.

Cheap and Best

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phlegm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions:

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup contains this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute nasal catarrh, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

PARMINT

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found how to save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for results. It gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

25 GIRLS BIND MATRON, BUT PLOT FAILS

Chicago, Nov. 14 (I.N.S.)—Twenty-five girls in Juvenile Detention Home were under heavy guard today owing to their attempt during the night to escape with knotted sheets while four men in a motor car circled below, outside the building. The men drove away when the attempt was frustrated.

The rebellion was led by Anna Baraunski, "Tiger Girl" seized recently with a band of hold-up men. It began when the girls pounced upon a matron making her rounds and trussed her to a chair.

The rebels had 15 sheets united into a rope that was to be dropped four stories to the ground.

The girls were clustered about a window opening when Angus Frew, the superintendent, chanced upon them. He called for reinforcements, who subdued the girls.

Police are searching for four men observed outside in the automobile.

WHEAT CONTROL BY U. S. BOARD PLANNED

Chicago, Nov. 14 (A.P.)—A wheat commission plan of handling America's surplus wheat is now being worked out in his department, Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, indicated today in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Such a commission as he advocates would relieve the wheat farmer and in conjunction with the tariff would bring about a rise in price in the domestic market.

He made it clear, however, that price gixing must be avoided and warned that government interference with the elements of supply and demand would hamper readjustment.

LONG-SOUGHT CANVAS FOUND IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 14. (I.N.S.)—A famous portrait painted 30 years ago by Giacomo Cotta, the Italian, and long-sought by connoisseurs, was believed to have been found here today when an expert uncovered beneath the grime and dirt of centuries the name of the noted artist. The painting at once was put into a safety deposit vault.

$9,000,000 EGG CLEANUP PLANNED BY 7 IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Joseph Rushkewics, secretary of the City Council's High Cost Committee, charges Chicago dealers are attempting to corner the egg market and create an artificial shortage that will boost prices to $1 a dozen. He urges householders to refrain from using eggs.

Eggs are selling at eighty cents a dozen in Chicago, despite storage houses bulging with 1,200,000 cases, or more than 30,000,000 dozen, he said.

Seven dealers, alleged to have combined, expect to make $9,000,000 before Christmas with "dollar eggs," according to Ray Lane, former attorney for the committee.

Don't Borrow Dad's, My Boy—Own Your Own AutoStrop

All the "PULLING" left out of the razor went into this campaign in the BOSTON AMERICAN which pulled an average of 6000 razor orders a day over 100,000 in three weeks

RIOT OF RETURNS!

Underestimated—By One to Five

The second week of the advertising campaign by which Autostrop razors were sold to Boston American readers, a Boston store manager said:

"I suppose with all the publicity it's had, that razor campaign of yours must have sold nearly 15,000 razors."

He underestimated American "pulling power" by one to five.

Instead of 15,000, the total then was 75,000 and in another week it was 100,000—daily total for three weeks over 100,000—at 36 cents each, $36,000 worth of razors.

Three Facts Emerge From This Razor Sale:

FIRST — The Boston American commands potent reader interest, which is the red corpuscle element in an advertising medium. Thousands followed the razor campaign and read the advertising each day. To get the razor two coupons had to be clipped from successive issues.

SECOND — Continuous advertising produces results. The razor campaign called for day-after-day space. It generated pulling energy, which got over 6,000 returns daily. An advertiser who "tries one 'ad' in the paper to see what it'll do" is like a man attempting to illuminate his house with a sky-rocket.

THIRD — The American commands buying power. $36,000 worth of razors were sold in three weeks.

The above underestimate of the store manager indicates that the selling energy of American circulation for its advertisers is under—rather than over—valued.

These buyers of razors are only part of a quarter million readers, influenced by "Americanized" advertising to purchase suits, shoes, foodstuffs, jewelry, automobiles, furniture, amusement, and scores of other goods, services and commodities.

When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland, when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. It has a successful trial trip and Pat saves the boat from falling into Schuyler's hands by a bluff. Larry backs Bully Boy Brewster in a prize fight. Pat sneaks into the firehouse, but the constable orders her out. The fight is stopped by a fire alarm.

Patricia (Marion Davies), Larry Delavan and John Jacob Astor

By Rida Johnson Young,

Whose Plays Have Won Her a High Place Among American Playwrights.

"Little Old New York," from the Broadway Success of That Name, by Rida Johnson Young, Has Been Created Into a Superlative Motion Picture by Cosmopolitan Productions—Direction of Sidney Olcott—Adapted by Luther Reed.

THE fire was one of many that had been lighted to help to celebrate the triumph of Robert Fulton and the Clermont. So they found when they came close to it. And no one whom they met could tell them where was the true fire that they sought.

Back in the fire house, while the crowd surged about and raged, half in, half out, Larry Delavan was one of the few who kept his head. Suspicious from the first, he satisfied himself by a few questions that none of those regularly authorized to give an alarm of fire by ringing the bell had done so. And then, in a rage, he turned to Rachel Brewster.

"I believe that you rang the bell to save your brother!" Larry cried.

She turned upon him like a vixen.

"Liar!" she cried. "He needed no saving—he'd have won! You know why that bell sounded—you who were afraid to lose your dirty dollars!"

In the ring Irving, standing alone, made himself heard at last.

"Hear me!" he cried. "As referee, as this fight was ended in disorder, I declare all bets off!"

"There—there's your friend to help you out!" Rachel cried.

Some of the crowd had heard her. The rumor ran like wildfire; in its outskirts the charge against Larry was believed at once. He stood as white as his own shirt, utterly aghast—a picture of guilt if ever a man was.

"Nonsense!" cried Brevoort with swift and generous loyalty. "Do you think a gentleman and a Delavan would play so scurvy a trick? For shame'"

"Gentleman or Delavan, I know a welcher when I see him!" cried Rachel. She was all virago now; such few restraints as had bound her before were lost. "If I were a man I'd thrash you—I'd help to string you up to the nearest lamp post—welcher—welcher—welcher!"

And it was in this moment that Pat chose to come down the stairs from the bell tower to seek escape Brevoort saw her first; cried out and a moment later could have bitten out his tongue as he realized what must be the truth. Larry turned, so, like a shot, did Rachel. Triumph blazed in her eyes.

"Aye—and there's the sneaking brat that did his dirty work for the welcher!" she cried shrilly. "I saw him about before the fight and ordered him home—and [illegible] sneaked back behind me back!"

"Pat!" cried Larry in agony. "Tell me you didn't do it—I'll believe you, boy, whether any one else does or not!"

"Sure, and I can't tell you that, for I did!" she cried in answer "Wasn't it the only way to save you from losing every last dollar you have left in all the world?"

"Good God!" groaned Larry

"The fine gentleman he is'" shrieked Rachel. "There's his honor for you—setting the boy to do his work and then not havin' the courage to own up! Shame—shame—shame'"

Suddenly she sprang toward Pat, who shrank back against the wall, afraid of this woman as she would have been of no man. But Larry saw and stepped between them

"Hands off! Be still, you'" he said sternly to Rachel "I tell you there's some mistake here. I knew nothing of this'"

"Of course he didn't" said Brevoort. "Pat should be whipped—but he's only a little boy who knew no better!"

Irving was listening with a face full of anxiety. Now he turned to Larry and whispered in his ear:

"They've found out it was a false alarm. I hear the mob coming back," he said. "We must get out of here—there's no telling what they'll do when they hear the truth And we can't silence this wench."

"Right, said Larry. "Thank God for your cool head, Walsh! Come, Pat—come, gentlemen—we'll go to my house——"

Rachel made as if to bar their way, but at Larry's stern command she stood aside and made no further effort to check them. But she sent after them a stream of language so vile that Pat cowered at the sound of it

Slowly they made their way across Bowling Green to Larry's house. The men were grave and stern. Pat began to realize for the first time the enormity of what she had done—in their eyes.

Barring the Doors

At the house Reilley was waiting. He cried out thankfully at the sight of Pat, then beset the others with eager questions, to which none made any reply. Larry turned to him.

"Double lock the doors—bar all the windows as stoutly as you can!" he said.

They went upstairs then [illegible] stood looking toward the fire house. They could see the mob come back, could see, too, how Rachel met them and her vehement gestures as she cried out her news. And then she was pointing—pointing straight toward them

"Now she's telling them," said Irving "Almost time to look for our guests to begin arriving, Larry'"

Now they could see the Terror, the same dreadful figure he had been in the ring, facing the crowd and shouting to it. The next moment something flashed in his hand.

"God—look at that whip he's got!" said Brevoort, and shivered. "I'd as soon be hung as have him lay that on my back."

"Ready," said Irving. "Here they come."

The Terror had turned toward them, and now, with a wild wave of his hand, he began to run across the Green and toward them. Behind him came the mob, snarling, clamorous and ugly in its rage.

Sudenly Larry turned to Pat.

"For God's sake, Pat!" he cried, "why did you do it?"

"I told you'" she cried. "I could not bear to see you losing the little you had left—to him" She fixed her baleful eyes on Brevoort. "Now you know! I tried to save you!"

"And what you've done is to brand me to the whole city as a coward—a cheat—a trickster who bets and tries to get out of paying when he loses!"

The Mob Advances

"Oh!" cried Patricia. For the first time some conception of the enormity of what she had done came to her, and helpless to check herself, she burst into tears. Larry turned away with a gesture of helpless irritation

"Never mind, Larry—he's only a boy," said Irving, "and we've no time to bother with all that now. This looks as if it might be an ugly business."

The mob was coming. It was at the gate, now it was beating upon the door

"They'll have it down in a minute—no door can stand aginst that sort of pounding!" said Irving

"Here!" said Larry, "I'll speak to them. I can stop them——"

"You're mad'" said Breevort.

"Listen to reason, man," said Irving.

"Do you suppose I care what they do to me?" cried Larry furiously. "They think me a cheat—I'll show them at least I'm not a coward'"

Down East Apple Pudding

Cream together ½ cup sugar and rounded tablespoon butter. Add 1 egg and beat well. Then ½ cup milk and beat again. Stir into this about 1¼ cups of flour into which has been sifted 2 level teaspoons baking powder and a pinch of salt. Add 1 teaspoon lemon extract or juice of half lemon and stir all together good. Pour this batter over 2 pounds of apples that have been cut up as for pie and sprinkled with about 1-3 cup sugar and nutmeg or cinnamon to taste in a well buttered cake pan. (I use cake pan about 8 or 9 inches square.) Cut in squares while hot and serve with any sauce you like, but we like it better with no sauce. (Takes from ½ to ¾ of an hour to bake.)

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

Ann Lisle

"IT doesn't occur to Miss Gregory that she hasn't a right to so much of a married man's time and interest. She feels as free to accept his friendship—"

"As you do mine," broke in Ralph quietly.

I lifted myself out of the low seat of his roadster and stared at him in amazement. But Ralph went on doggedly.

"Look here, Anne, the whole bunch of you strikes me as being a little melodramatic about Jim's friendship with Miss Gregory. They're congenial. They're folks who have a lot in common. I'm the old fogy type who, having found the one woman, could never see another outside of the most casual meetings. But such old fogies have gone out of style.

"The nineteen-twenties haven't much patience with us. Maybe the nineteen thirties will usher us back. In the meantime, take it easy if Jim lives 'a la mode.' And don't let the beauty and simplicity of what Aunt Mary has found blind you to the fact that she had to wait till she was most fifty to get it."

"Thank you, Ralph," I said a little ironically.

"Look here!" burst from Ralph. "I know and you know darn well that whether this house party is at Mrs. MacAvoy's or at the Gregory place, it's all right. By Jupiter, Anne Harrison, don't you know that if it were otherwise no one would be quicker to play up the fact than I? Don't you know what it would mean to me if you—for any reason—cut Jim out? I'd be there waiting. And I'm human enough—so I might long for my chance. There's just one woman in the world who means home and marriage to me . . . No, siree Bob—this is on the level—or I'd—seize on my advantage, and try to make my dream come true."

Ralph's words ended in a burst of speed which sent us pounding forward at a great rate and kept him intent on the road and the wheel.

During that wild drive I sat clutching my thoughts in a desperate grip What Ralph had said restored my equilibrium The chivalry with which he assured me that I had no cause for jealousy touched me. The way he managed to say without offense that if I were free or driven to seek freedom he'd want to marry me put a thought in my mind which never had before lodged there for even a moment.

But I knew the answer Jim is my man. Nothing he could do or fail to do would make me consider dissolving the marriage which is in my eyes "until death us do part."

CORNELL, YALE AND WEST VIRGINIA CROWDING SYRACUSE

EASTERN GRID TITLE STILL HANGING FIRE

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY.

The salt of the earth apparently isn't all in the ground up at Syracuse. "Chick" Meehan's eleven is considered quite some salt of the earth by Syracuse University grads and undergrads and residents of the section in general.

They are not carrying on their talk in undertones either. It may come to pass that there will be a great hubbub about claiming the eleven as the Eastern champion at the season's end. The team is not only unbeaten, but has yet to have a touchdown scored against it.

However, certain big things will have to be accomplished before there will be anything like a concerted rush to pass laurels, as far as the experts are concerned. Syracuse only beat the rather weak Pittsburgh Panthers 3 to 0. High score victories over Colgate and Nebraska, however, would send Syracuse stock up very prominently.

Cornell, Yale and West Virginia, along with Syracuse, are all pointing for the Eastern title. Of the quartet, Cornell finds the most general favor, but so far its schedule, barring Dartmouth and possibly Colgate, is somewhat anemic.

There is no telling how Yale, though widely favored, will fare against Princeton and Harvard. As for West Virginia, the mountaineers played to a tie with Penn State, and the Nittay Lions were tamed, 1[illegible] to 0, by Syracuse.

The Orange-jerseyed clan invades Lincoln, Neb., to play the Nebraska Cornhuskers on the twenty fourth of the month. If they best Nebraska, sole conquerors of Notre Dame, what a boost that will be?

Nebraska has lost to Illinois and deadlocked with Kansas and Missouri, but it started by beating the nomads of Notre Dame, who beat Army, Princeton and Georgia Tech demonstratively.

A year ago, Syracuse beat Nebraska, 9 to 6. That was the only defeat Nebraska took. The Cornhuskers essayed much stronger last year than now.

TUFTS EXPECTS TO WIN FROM THE AGGIES

Coach Eddie Casey's Tufts eleven will be the favorites against the Aggies next Saturday.

Nate Share

Schuster, a second string end, was given a chance in place of Chandonnett and did well. He will alternate with Chandonnett.

Every player is in good shape.

Casey expects to win by two touchdowns. However the Jumbos are not over-confident.

Tufts will depend on an aerial attack and end runs by Van French and Etelman.

George Perry will figure in the fray. He will start at quarterback.

The Aggies [illegible] Tufts will be [illegible] ends; Jones [illegible] tackles; [illegible]son and Gavin, guards; Myrick, centre, and Comier, Sullivan, McGeoch and Guftafson, backfield.

WILLIAMS DEFEATS FOLEY AT TRIPLE A

Eddie Williams won the main bout at the Armory A. A. boxing show at the Grand Opera House. He defeated Harry Foley. The bout went the full distance of ten rounds.

Sammy Marco, of Canada, won from Jimmy Reed of Brockton in one round. Reed suffered a bad cut over his eye, and his seconds hoisted the towel and acknowledged defeat.

Wop Manolian, of Dorchester, won over George Allen, of Malden, in eight rounds. Their contest was the best of the show.

The [illegible] bout was between Joe Donovan of South Boston and Young Rector of the North End and Donovan won by a knockout in the seventh round.

Williams-Amherst Game May Have President

Williamstown, Nov 14.—The Williams College authorities have extended an invitation to President Coolidge to attend the annual game with Amherst here Saturday.

No word has yet been received in regard to whether or not he will be on hand. He often attended the annual game in past years, but his present high office may prevent him from finding time this year.

It is considered doubtful if he finds time to come.

JACK TURNER IS AS LARGE AS STASIAK

Dakota Jack Turner, the Western giant grappler who meets Stanley Stasiak at the Grand Opera House, Thursday night is due in town today. He will go to a local gymnasium and work out a few kinks from his train ride and then rest until tomorrow.

Indications point to the largest crowd of the season turning out to see the fray. It is seldom the fans have a chance to see a man as large as Stasiak in action.

Milo Steinborn, the German Sampson, will appear on the card in a one fall match with Steve Bonecki, a giant longshoreman. He wants to show the fans he is deserving of a match with Stasiak or Taramaschi.

Jack Albright, the man with the thousand holds, meets Swanson, the big Dane, in another bout to a finish. Albright wants matches with Taramaschi or any of the lighter heavies and is willing to back himself to win on a winner take all basis.

The other feature on the card will show Miss Virginia Merceran, the champion lady wrestler of the West, meeting Miss Hazel Kinnard of Somerville in the first of a series of elimination contests to provide a suitable opponent to meet Miss Cora Livingston, the world's champion lady wrestler.

SAMMY MANDELL IS WINNER OVER HERMAN

New York, Nov. 14.—Sammy Mandell, the Chicago feather and junior lightweight star, was too much for Babe Herman, formerly of California, in their twelve-round bout at the Pioneer sporting club.

Mandell was too shifty and clever and got over the snappy blows. He easily won the decision.

Herman, unable to do anything as a boxer against Mandell, cast science away in the final round, and slugged all the way.

Mandell was never in danger. He used a straight left effectively, and was so far ahead on points that he did not worry.

New York, Nov. 14.—Beyond an attempt to land another left-hand pitcher and an outfielder who bats righthanded, Miller Huggins declares that he intends to stand pat on the Yankees for next season.

He declined to say whether another attempt would be made to obtain Jake May, left-hander of the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast League.

It is understood that Huggins is angling for Benny Karr, pitcher and pinch hitter of the Atlanta Club.

He is said to be in the market for Dumont, a pitcher of the same team, formerly with Washington.

Landis Insists That Weak Clubs Be Helped

Chicago, Nov. 14.—A number of important baseball changes will be submitted at the joint meetings of the major leagues to be held here December 12.

The changes are planned in an effort to strengthen the weaker clubs of the league. Here are some of the suggestions which will be submitted:

1—Preference on claims by waivers to be given last place club with seventh place club having second choice, etc.

2—Umpires to be given right to appeal all disputes to commissioner.

3—Suggestion that non playing managers and coaches be excluded in the player limit of forty.

4—Change in rules so that no club can "negotiate for or employ" a player under contract or who has accepted terms with another club.

COLBY GAME IS OFF IF THERE IS SNOW

Bill Hatch

Bill Hatch, with a noticeable limp, was on the field in togs, and Duffy, sub centre, watched proceedings in civilian clothes.

It was learned that should a cold streak bring snow, the Colby game in all probability will be cancelled.

That will leave Dartmouth without a contest for two and a half weks, as the Columbia game falls on Thanksgiving Day.

BIG FIGHT SURE WHEN TIGER MEETS BULLDOG

By TOM THORP

Princeton is going to give Yale a hard battle in the New Haven Bowl on Saturday. The 5-to-0 setback administered by Bob Fisher's Crimson pupils is not going to cost the Orange and Black players any of their fighting spirit.

Coach Roper.

The sensational comeback displayed by the Nassau Hall representatives in the last eight minutes shows the potential strength of the Tigers. Had Bill Roper's charges been able to stage this inspiring rally a few minutes earlier, it is likely that all Jungletown would still be celebrating a victory.

Roper's players showed a lack of experience in their playing. The backs did not kick off as well as former Tiger star backfield men have been known to do. Football authorities contend that a lineman can be developed in a single year, but that it takes at least two years to make an up-to-date backfield player.

With the experience that they obtained down in Palmer Stadium on Saturday, the Tiger town representatives are sure to put up a harder and more consistent game next week end. It takes a hard game to make a football game.

Murray Gibson

Capt. Snively

Rutan's return to the Tiger forward line is going to strengthen Roper's team where they needed some assistance.

guards of the season. When he is taken out of his regular position to be shifted into a tackle job, his effectiveness is taken away from his playing.

With Howard back at his regular guard berth the Tigers are going to offer more stubborn resistance to Tad Jones' Elis than they did to the Crimson.

HARVARD HEARS McGLONE IS IN FINE SHAPE

Joe McGlone, the Natick speed boy, who was reported to have sustained a broken leg in the Tiger game, is found to be in fine shape, save for a general shaking up, and was expected to report to Coach Fisher for practice with the Harvard squad today or tomorrow.

Joe McGlone

His return will be an inspiration to the university squad, for Joe is the pilot who can get that last bit of fight and energy from the Harvard team.

It looks as though Percy Jenkins will be in shape for the Yale battle. Rumor had it that Jenkins was out for the rest of the season, but Jenkins, except for a twisted ankle, is in pretty good condition. A week's rest will take care of it.

Although Coach Fisher has not definitely announced the lineup for Brown, indications point to the use of the second team.

In the past the Brown game has been regarded as a test. If the players showed up poorly against Princeton, they started against Brown for practice. On the other hand, if they did well against the Tigers, they were rested and it now looks as though the varsity will be given a rest Saturday.

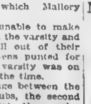
Should Fisher decide to throw a second-string lineup against the Bruins, then the varsity will take a trip down New Haven to watch the Yale-Princeton game.

The second eleven would have Lew Gordon and Ted Crosby, ends; A[illegible] Hobson and Russell Hubbard, tackles; Donovan, and Donlee[illegible], guards; Bradford or Macomber, centre; Phil Spaulding, quarterback, Akers, Moseley, Lockwood, Howes and "Nip" Cordingley.

MILSTEAD WILL BE ABLE TO PLAY

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 14.—The Yale varsity had a half hour of scrimmage against the scrub team at Pratt Field preparatory to the Princeton game next Saturday.

Milstead was not in the lineup. His place at left tackle was taken by Hubbard and then by Miller and then Hubbard went in again before the scrimmage was over.



Tad Jones

The varsity made two scores against the scrubs, once when Mallory, on a drop kick, made a field goal from the 30 yard line, and when Neale punted to the scrubs and there was a scrub fumble on the 20-yard line.

Miller had gone down with the ends to cover the punt, picked up the ball and took it across for a touchdown, after which Mallory kicked a goal.

The scrubs were unable to make any headway against the varsity and did not get the ball out of their own territory. Stevens punted for the scrubs, but the varsity was on the offence most of the time.

After the scrimmage between the varsity and the scrubs, the second team played against the scrubs. This team was run by Murphy. His backfield was Neidlinger, Bench and Cottle. Scott went in for a few minutes.

White Defeats Byron

Worcester, Nov. 14.—Sailor Byron lost the decision to Scoops White. Both fighters were over the lightweight limit.

Union Labor Stands By Its Friends

When three large cigar manufacturers moved away from Boston because they refused to pay the Union wage it was thought by some people that the cigar industry had been seriously hurt in Boston.

The Elcho cigar, however, remained in Boston, and the sale of this cigar has grown to such proportions that it has become necessary to have enlarged factory space.

The Elcho cigar has been consistently advertised as Union Made and because of this, and the fact that it is made from a particularly fine long Havana filler, it has become such a big seller that it is now evident that Boston will continue to be the big cigar center of New England.

WILSON REFUSED TO QUIT UNDER FIRE

By JACK CONWAY.

Ted Moore, English middleweight, will breeze forth in his first bout in a New England ring when he clashes with Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia in a ten-round tussle at the Faneuil A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight. Moore comes here with a record of having defeated Ted (Kid) Lewis and Johnny Basham. He has hopes of proving he is entitled to a match with Harry Greb for the world's middleweight title.

Moore has not picked a soft one, for his Boston debut. Loughran is one of the best of our light-heavyweights. He recently proved this when he won over Greb in a close bout in this city.

Moore will give away five or six pounds in weight, but he believes that despite this handicap he will finish out front.

The Englishman is boxing under the direction of Tom O'Rourke, former manager of George Dixon and Joe Walcott. Tom says Moore is a high grade performer and that he will prove a revelation to Boston fans.

Loughran has been made the favorite in the betting on account of his fine showings against Greb and Mike McTigue.

The winner of tonight's match, very naturally, will be in a position to secure attractive bookings.

WOLF LARSEN TO CLASH WITH WHITEY ALLEN

Wolf Larsen, former amateur champion, will try to continue his run of victories when he meets Whitey Allen of Hyde Park, another former amateur champion, in the semi-final of ten rounds. Both boys are stiff hitters which assures the fans of plenty of action.

Their will also be two eights. Honey Finnegan of Dorchester will clash with Steve Adams of Chicago, while Nick Madonna, of Lexington, will try to dispose of George Siegel, of Revere.

As soon as Loughran and Moore [illegible] Johnny Wilson, former world's middleweight champion and Pal Reed, will take the center of the fistic stage. These famous rivals will clash in a ten-round contest at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on Friday night.

There is intense local interest in this match. Up-State fans, as well as many in Boston will root for Reed, while Wilson will also get fine support from his [illegible] followers in this city.

As middleweight champion Wilson was unpopular. He was often referred to as a "cheese champion." This was due to the fact he didn't fight very often. Although highly educated and of a sensitive nature, Wilson [illegible] was a regular man [illegible] permit the knockers [illegible].

[illegible] his fighting ability, Wilson instructed Frank Marlow, [illegible] the New Yorker [illegible], to get him a bout [illegible]. Despite two years of [illegible] Wilson gave Greb a fierce [illegible], the referee calling the affair a draw and the two judges ruling for Greb.

WILSON STARTED CAMPAIGN AGAINST ALL COMERS.

Wilson figured, as did the experts, that he would have won over Greb if it had not been for his long period of inactivity. After a month at Freddy Welsh's health farm at Summit, N. J., Wilson took on George Robinson at the Arena. He easily won over the Cambridge man. Wilson showed 100 per cent. better fighting form than he did as champion. And from being termed a "cheese champion," Wilson became the greatest middleweight in the world in the eyes of those who saw him in action here.

Wilson added to his popularity when he signed to fight Reed here on Friday night. Before Johnny won the middleweight title from Mike O'Dowd he received a questionable verdict over Reed. As champion he refused to meet Pal. Now he comes forth and consents to take on the heavy-hitting Natick warrior, who has recently scored wins over Pat McCarthy and Joe Eagan.

Jack Conway Picks Loughran, Larsen and Finnegan

Jack Conway, holder of the world's record for picking winners, hands out the following low down on the Faneuil A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight:

"Tommy Loughran is our choice to win over Ted Moore," says Jack. "This should be a hard, tough bout. Loughran has proved his ability in bouts with Harry Greb and Mike McTigue, while Moore is rated highly in England.

"For the semi-final we are stringing along with Wolf Larsen to win over Whitey Allen. Honey Finnegan of Dorchester should dispose of Steve Adams of Chicago, while the Nick Madonna-George Siegal affair is a toss-up."

Jack has picked 129 winners out of a possible 151.

AMATEUR RING STARS FIT FOR BIG SHOW

New York and New Haven boxers who clash with the cream of the Boston amateurs in the first big simon pure tournament of the season at the Boston Arena tomorrow night will arrive in Boston today.

William Cuddy.

Both teams of boxers are anxious to be on the ground early in order to be in the best possible shape for the bouts.

Ever since Boston climbed to dizzy heights in amateur circles, every city in amateurdom has been anxious to turn back the Boston boys. Thus far, however, President W. H. Cuddy has been successful in selecting teams that have been invincible.

The team picked for this big tri-city tourney is considered one of the best that ever represented Boston and local followers of the ring game are looking forward for another triumph.

There will be four classes in the intercity bouts and three open classes. This will give the fans plenty of action and on account of the fact that there is a long list of entries the opening bout will go into the ring at 8 p. m.

What makes SUCCESS?
Any man who wants to go into business for himself should read this

ONCE in a Blue Moon some article achieves instant success through "luck." But behind most Successes you'll find careful planning.

In only a few weeks Lorivana has become one of the city's most popular cigars. The reasons behind this success may apply to your own business problems. To win success—

(1) You should fill an unmet want. It gets the law of success on your side. Lorivana meets the widespread demand for a high-quality 10c cigar of larger size.

(2) You should Specialize. As with Lorivana. Specialization on One Price—One Size—One Quality—resulted in this high-quality cigar of larger size.

(3) You should have experience. You can't have too much! The P. Lorillard Co. have been making fine tobacco products for 163 years.

But these cold facts don't begin to describe the warm friendship which you'll feel for Lorivana three minutes after you strike a match to one.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Tax eaters are becoming the bane of this country. They are multiplying almost as fast as mosquitoes. And they are sucking up a lot more blood

Relief is direly needed. It is needed more by persons in modest circumstances than by multi-millionaires. The latter have found a way to dodge the terrifically heavy burdens which Washington tried to fasten on their shoulders. They simply, as everybody knows, put their money into tax-exempt investments. But the rest of us, who do not live on dividends or interest payments, but who have to toil and sweat for a living, cannot wriggle out of the clutches of the tax collector. There is no way of dodging payment of taxes on wages, salaries, income from our professional services or from our daily business activities.

* * *

The United States never had an abler Secretary of the Treasury than Andrew W. Mellon. Although enormously rich himself, his whole course at Washington has been broad-minded, impartial, eminently fair. His handling of the colossal financial problems of the last three years has won the admiration of every country on the face of the earth.

* * *

Now comes Secretary Mellon with a masterly plan for reducing taxes. It provides for relief to all grades, from men and women of modest income all the way along to the millionaire class.

And he shows this relief can be afforded without danger of incurring a treasury deficit.

* * *

Incomes	Present Tax	Proposed Tax	Saving to Taxpayers
$1,000	$28.00	$15.75	$12.25
5,000	68.00	38.25	29.75
6,000	128.00	72.00	56.00
7,000	188.00	99.00	89.00
8,000	268.00	144.00	124.00
9,000	348.00	189.00	159.00
10,000	456.00	234.00	222.00

* * *

Most people will agree that it is not unjust to levy a lighter income tax on wages and salaries and such like income which has to be earned by one's own individual effort than on an income received on investments, investments which in many cases have been inherited.

Secretary Mellon urges that the tax on "earned income" be reduced 25 per cent. Even those of the Vanderbilt class who had had their money handed to them on a gold platter should not object to such relief. The man who earns his wages or his salary by the sweat of his brow surely is entitled to more consideration, in the matter of taxes, than rich idlers who never earned a penny in their lives.

* * *

Without shadow of doubt, Secretary Mellon's plan for cutting income taxes would have a most stimulating effect upon business and upon employment all over the country.

He proposes also to do away with taxes on tickets for admission to the movies, theatres, etc., also taxes on table silver, watches and other things classed as luxuries but which we all recognize as necessaries.

In short, his whole plan is most comprehensive, calculated to benefit the poor as well as those of moderate and those of ample means.

From a sound business point of view, there is no other method of using the Government's surplus of fully $300,000,000 which could do so great good, for the greatest number.

* * *

It is to be hoped that the "pork barrel" raiders who are itching to destroy the whole budget system will not be able to upset so admirable a plan for lightening the burdens of us all, and giving business and industry, and, therefore, employment a real tonic.

THRIFT PRIZES OFFERED BY WOMEN

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Now that the Great War is for some time a thing of the past, the lessons of thrift that it taught are more or less faded out, although they are just as valuable as ever.

The Women's Division of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks has undertaken to see that thrift is not forgotten.

It has offered cash prizes amounting to $1,000 for the six best and most practical outlines for teaching thrift in the elementary, junior high and continuation schools.

Manuscripts should be typewritten on bond paper, with the name and address of the sender on each page. Every page must be numbered. All communications should be addressed to Mrs. Allen P. Stevens, Maine Savings Bank, Portland, Me.

Because thrift is such a far-reaching subject, entering into almost every phase of human endeavor, it can be incorporated into almost every subject taught in school rather than being added to the curriculum as a new and separate study.

Arithmetic, with its interest problems, careful care of books and supplies, thrift in health through physical training, conservation of resources with geography, the ruinous extravagance of rulers in history, thrift as a subject for composition, oratory and even in drawing and art classes are just a few of the many ways thrift instruction can be welded into the already existing school studies.

Teachers with their intimate knowledge of school life and studies are undoubtedly well fitted to make suggestions of practical ways and means to this end.

For the best complete outline $500 will be awarded; $100 will be awarded to five additional outlines next in order of excellence. The judges of the contest will be Commissioners of Education from the Eastern States, together with the United States Commissioner of Education and the president of the National Education Association. The contest closes April 1, 1924.

COPPER RANGE.

To D. N. C., Brewster street.—Copper Range's present net current assets, largely cash, Liberty bonds and copper in process, amount to almost $6,000,000. This is equivalent to about $15 per share on the 394,390 shares of stock outstanding. The surface plant, reduction works, the Copper Range Railroad, the three mines, including the 50 per cent. ownership in the rich Champion property, are therefore selling at the equivalent of but little over $8 per share, or less than $3,200,000.

It has been seriously handicapped by the shortage of mining labor and has been compelled to operate at less than 70 per cent. capacity. Production is now running around 2,000,000 pounds of copper a month from all three mines, against 2,500,000 and above the early months of this year.

Champion continues to carry the load, so to speak. This property made net profits in the first six months of this year of over $500,000 and has been of material aid in holding up earnings. Champion rock continues to yield around forty pounds of copper per ton and costs are low. Were labor available Champion's output would be materially increased, for even on 13-cent copper this property can make money with production near capacity.

BOSTON & ALBANY.

To O. A. A., Dunham street—For all of 1922 Boston & Albany showed surplus of $1,477,809. To equal that it would have to earn surplus of but $184,247 in last three months of 1923, or an average of only $61,415 per month. In last three months of 1922, of course, the Albany made excellent record, the coal and shop strikes having been settled. In that period it earned surplus of $457,074, or average of $191,358 a motnh.

VIRGINIA IRON.

To R. N., Baldwin street—Virginia Iron, Coal & Coke Company manufactures foundry iron and coke. The company's properties include six blast furnaces, 1,000 bee-hive coke ovens and 120,000 acres of coal lands in Virginia and Kentucky, yielding a high grade of steam and gas coal.

Large areas of undeveloped ore lands in Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia are also controlled by the company.

The present corporation was formed in 1899 as a consolidation of the leading iron, coal and coke properties of southwestern Virginia. Capitalization consists of $2,300,000 funded debt, $5,000,000 5 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock, both of $100 a share par value. The book value of the common shares, according to the latest published balance sheet, amounts to about $108 a share.

Virginia Iron was one of the companies which was greatly benefited by the general industrial prosperity during and immediately following the war. Previous to 1916 the concern had, for several years, shown a succession of deficits; from 1913 to 1916, inclusive, earnings were insufficient to cover bond interest. Since 1917, however, a much better record has been made. Per share earnings since that year have averaged about $7.94 annually on the present outstanding common stock, after allowing for dividends on the preferred shares. Even in 1921 the company was able to show a surplus available for the common stock. Net income in 1922 amounted to $575,393, or $3.26 a share on the common. In the first nine months of the current year the company earned $528,957, or $3.49 a share on the common stock.

Regular dividends have been paid on the preferred stock since its issuance in 1922. The present $4 rate of the common was inaugurated in May, 1923. In 1922 the junior stock received $3 a share and a 50 per cent. dividend in preferred stock. The old common shares received $6 annually from 1920 to 1922.

Range of stocks under present capitalization: Preferred, high, 84, in March, 1923; low, 66, in March, 1922; current quotation, 80 bid, to yield approximately 6.26 per cent. Common, high, 68, in March, 1923; low, 43, in March, 1922.

STUDEBAKER.

To L. D. L., Clover street.—Condensed analysis you request follows: Studebaker Corporation common—Junior shares of prominent automobile manufacturing company. Subject to pool operations. Special surplus $4,455,000. Dividend $10 annually. Safe with continuance of anything like business of recent years.

REYNOLDS SPRING.

To O. D. L., Clement avenue.—Reynolds Spring Company makes automobile cushion springs, upholstery springs of various kinds and in addition manufactures radio parts under contract with the De Forest Radio & Telephone Company. Its plants at Jackson, Mich., have a total floor space of 202,368 square feet.

The company was formed under Delaware laws in 1919, and assumed its present title in 1920. Capitalization according to the latest published balance sheet consists of $407,800 class "A" preferred, $360,000 class "B" preferred (both 7 per cent. cumulative and $100 par value) and 147,000 shares of no-par common. The company recently offered to exchange its preferred shares for common stock in the ratio of five common for one preferred. The book value of the common, according to the latest published financial statement, is about $10 a share, not including good-will and patents.

Net earnings have shown a steady increase since the inception of business in 1919. In 1922 net income amounted to $257,426, equivalent to about $1.07 a share on the present outstanding capital stock, compared with net of $80,797, or 54 cents a share in 1921, and $64,786, or about 44 cents a share in 1920. In the first six months of the current year net income was $138,026, or 75 cents a share. Average per share earnings since the formation of the company have amounted to about 80 cents a share annually on present capitalization.

Regular dividends have been paid on the preferred "A" since the formation of the company, and on the preferred "B" since 1920, when all accumulated back dividends were cleared up. The present rate of $2 a share on the common was inaugurated in June, 1923. The last previous payment was $1 a share, in 1920.

Range of common stock since listing on the New York Stock Exchange: High, 50¾, in 1922; low, 12¼, in 1922; now around 20.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—William Wrigley, Jr., in explaining today the big expansion of his chewing gum company, said it was due to advertising. On a trip West recently in company with a friend, the latter said:

"You have built up a remarkable business. Why not save some of this advertising money and run along on momentum for a while?"

"Well," Mr. Wrigley said. "We have had a fine, fast trip West from Chicago so far, How much progress do you think we would make if they took off the locomotive?"

Washington, Nov. 14.—Savings depositors' balances with the Boston postoffice totalled $7,866,833 on October 31 and Boston continues to hold its position in third place, being outranked only by New York and Brooklyn, but being closely pressed by Chicago which has a little over $6,000,000 of deposits.

COOLIDGE WILL DECIDE BONUS ISSUE HIMSELF

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

Washington, Nov. 14 (C.N.S.).—Refusing to be swayed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's anti-bonus propaganda, President Coolidge will take his own time and decide for himself the administration's policy on the soldiers' bonus, according to the best advices obtainable here today.

When asked to comment on Mr. Mellon's tax reduction plan, which contained the usual expression of hostility to the bonus, a spokesman for the President was content to say that while the plan was interesting the administration could well afford to await the reaction it would arouse in the public mind.

Mr. Mellon occupies an unique place in the cabinet. He is an example of one liability which accrued to Mr. Harding when he surpresent administration will tread. rounded himself with the so-called "big men" who kept for themselves the privilege of sauntering down one street while the administration was going up another.

Mr. Mellon was very influential with the late President Harding. He was so potent, in fact, as to be credited by the vets as the influence which prompted Mr. Harding to veto the bonus.

President Coolidge has paid tribute to Secreary Mellon as "one of the best financial minds" in the nation; but has given no indication that he intends to permit the Secretary to mark the paths which the present administration will tread.

How Do You Rate Cockroaches?

I don't know just what your idea is about these disgusting pests, but I do know they are both a nuisance and a source of danger. Did you ever stop to think of the places where these bugs are commonly found? It is usually in the worst places imaginable. Coming from such spots, they roam at will into all places in a building or house. In cases of residences, they often come in contact with food supplies, and contaminate them. In places where food is served they are sometimes noticeable. They are credited with being responsible for outbreaks of typhoid fever on vessels, and no doubt do carry disease germs of various kinds. They exude a fetid odor from their mouths and scent glands.

After trying all kinds of methods without success, many people despair of ever being able to free their premises from their presence. It is a very simple matter to do this by the use of "Martin's Powder for Cockroaches." The directions for its use are so plain and simple that there is no trouble in following them. The powder is very effective. Cockroaches soon disappear after its use. Sold by all drug and department stores in New England for 60c and $1.20 per can; 65c and $1.30 by mail. Postage rates vary according to postal zones. Send money order, check or cash with mail orders. All registered in Maine.

A Little Lady of the "Homunculus" Type

Humanity May Be Something Like This One of These Days

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

McGURK'S IDEA OF A FEMALE "HOMUNCULUS" "MAKING UP" THE FACE OF A FULL-SIZED WOMAN

You have seen McGurk's pictures on the sporting pages of the Boston American, of course. This picture is cut from one of Mr. McGurk's wide cartoons in which he shows, among other imaginary inhabitants of "Patootie Land," the charming, undersized lady, here before you.

According to Mr. McGurk's imaginary recital, the inhabitants of "Patootie Land" employ these tiny creatures, real human beings with all the intelligence of a human being, but only about as long as a lead pencil, in many kinds of useful work.

One of the little things spends her life winding up phonographs—she is just the right size for that, using both hands and all her strength. Another is employed to find lost golf balls.

The tiny woman in this picture makes her living in "Patootie Land" by "making up the faces" of her full-sized sister, painting their lips, touching up their eyes with a skill made possible only by their wonderful eyesight.

You look at these pictures invented by McGurk, whose interesting drawings appear in the Boston American. Their ingeniousness and beauty amuse you and you pass on, no one could make you believe in the reality of this dwarf.

But not so long ago, less than five hundred years, Paracelsus, a famous German physician, and something of a magician, pretended and made people believe that he could actually create real human beings of this tiny size.

Paracelsus almost convinced himself that he could create a complete and perfect human being which he called "Homunculus," which in Latin means "little man." He is said to have displayed one of these tiny human creatures preserved in a small bottle.

With all his wild imagining, his alleged belief in the elixir of life, the philosopher's stone, etc., Paracelsus was really a great scientist, far ahead of his time. He undoubtedly excelled all other physicians of his day in knowledge, and of course they hated him for it, as is usual.

So much for Paracelsus. The curious thing is that the little creature imagined by him and shown by McGurk in his interesting pictures may some day, according to science, become a REALITY.

The big bodies that we carry around with us are no longer NECESSARY, except for digging ditches, cutting lumber, etc.

All the work that Thomas A. Edison does, for instance, could be done perfectly well by a Thomas A. Edison six inches long if the Edison brain could be packed in that kind of a skull.

The day is coming when the hardest work that human beings ever do will be pushing a button to start a great engine, run a flying machine or release power in any direction.

Slaves of iron, driven by electricity, will do all our work. Such machine-slaves could be managed just by little creatures the size of the "Homunculus" lady in this picture, as well as by a human being six feet tall.

Men had to be a certain size originally to compete with the other animals that surrounded them.

They had to kill bears and wolves, buffaloes, lions, mammoths, etc. That took SIZE and strength when their weapons were only clubs and flints. But now, the young woman in this picture, twice as long as your finger, could kill a rhinoceros if you gave her the right kind of gun. She could release by an electric attachment enough TNT from a flying machine to wipe out a city, or enough poison gas to kill all the inhabitants.

Let's hope, however, that if we shrink to this small size, because we no longer need our bulky bodies, we shall know enough NOT to continue murdering each other wholesale.

Such a tiny pigmy as the one in the picture could control a magnet that would lift a thousand tons of steel.

And presumably if women were reduced to this size and men reduced to this size, they would be just as much interested in each other as they are now.

SIZE is nothing, IMAGINATION is everything.

Tipping Waiters

Editor Boston American:

Permit me to reply to the gentleman who wrote the letter against tipping waiters. Does that same gentleman stop to consider that an "intelligent" waiter is a good judge of human nature and that the patron's comfort is really in the intelligent waiter's hands? I myself have served "real big men." Mr. Schwabb, Senator Copeland from New York, Mr. Mallory of the steamship lines bearing his name and Samuel Guggenheim, the copper king. Does he suppose that these same men would "tip" a waiter if they were not accorded exceptional service and courteous treatment? No! Most waiters in hotels are trained to do their work. It is up to the waiters themselves to make it more pleasant for the patrons who patronise "good" hotels. Some will tip a pretty girl who gives poor service, but refuse to tip when they get A-1 service from a man waiter. What is it, the pretty smile?

Waiter, Highland Hotel.

Boy Pleads for Family

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a boy fifteen, and I am writing to you to ask if any of your kind readers would have any clothes to give us. My father has been out of work for over a year and has had rheumatism, as the work has been very slack, so he got discouraged, and we haven't seen him since a week ago Sunday. As my mother is sick now, and has a baby two months old, it is very hard for her to try and go out and work. There is a boy eleven and another boy eight, a girl five and another two and a baby two months. If they have a cradle mattress to give I would be very thankful to them. My sisters and brothers cannot go to school because they have no shoes or clothes. PETER.

$5 for Mrs. M. L. 6

Editor Helping Hand:

The enclosed five dollars I would like you to give to the woman whose husband is nearly blind and who signs herself Mrs. M. L. 6. I would like her address and also the address of Mrs. L. T. 4, as I have some things for her. MRS. E. G. L.

Many thanks. The five dollars has been forwarded Mrs. M. L. 6, and I know she will be very grateful. You have been sent her address and Mrs. L. T. 4's address.

Needs Temporary Help

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband deserted me a little while ago and left me with two baby girls, one a year and eight months old and the other five months. I was wondering if some kind reader could get me part time work, as the babies are so small I could not leave them all day at present. I am living in my sister's house, and she helps me some, but I have no means to pay my rent and am afraid of being put out. The children are in need of Winter clothing, such as coats and bonnets. The older girl could use a pair of shoes size 2½ or 3. I hope you don't think I am too forward, but if there is only some way I could get along for the next five months I would be very glad, as by that time the children would be old enough to put into some nursery during the day and my worries would be over. MRS. L. McN.

Thanks From Anthony

Editor Helping Hand:

I received your letter and the check for one dollar from the man who signed "Mac," and I thank them very much, and when I say my prayers I will say one for him, too. My mother got me a pair of rubbers and a knitted cap for the dollar. ANTHONY.

CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND

You who have followed the Helping Hand in its more than a year of existence know better than others the suffering that constantly exists about us. Those of you who could, have shown that you know it by your unstinted help and encouragement.

Because, then, we know you have an understanding heart, the Helping Hand Editor wishes to call your attention to the Christmas Basket Fund which, with your help, will provide a Christmas dinner for many thousands of families who would otherwise find the Yuletide pretty cheerless. Details of the fund will be found on an inside page of this paper.

Mother and Girl Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband has been dead for some years, and I have supported my little family, which consists of a boy of fifteen and a girl of ten, by working in a shop, but now I am getting along in years, and everything has gone up so that I find it pretty hard to get along. I have got my boy about fitted out for the Winter, but my little girl and myself will have to go short. We need underclothes and coats especially. I wear size 38 coat, and shoes size 5½. We can make things over.

MRS. A. S. F.

Children Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have three children, two going to school, a girl seven and a boy six, and it is hard for them to go to school, because they have no clothes. My husband is out of work because he is sick. If any kind person could give us something for the Winter in the way of clothing he would do some work when he is better. As for me, I will try to go without as long as my children and husband get some clothes. My husband is five feet six inches tall.

MRS. T. F. R.

Package for Elsie

Editor Helping Hand:

Many thanks for the address of Elsie sent to me a few days ago. I have mailed her a package including shoes, rubbers, sweater and other things for her eight-year-old brother. If you could send me the address of a mother with a two or three-year-old girl I can send her a coat, shoes and several little dresses. MRS. J. E. H. 2.

Thank you for all you are doing. You have been sent the address of Mrs. B. L. 2, who has a girl that age.

Offers Woman's Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a woman's coat, size 36. Please send me an address.

MRS. C. M.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. M. T. C., who is in need of a Winter coat.

DO NOT LEAVE U. S. ON THE BED OF PROCRUSTES

By Herbert Kaufman

GREEK folklore, long before Rome even thought of "sitting on her Seven Hills," pictured in the fable of Procrustes the present economic plight of the United States.

This high-handed robber lived by a roadside and compelled every passerby to lie in the same bed.

When they were too short, he trussed them on a rack and stretched their limbs to fit. Those who were too long he chopped down to the length of the bed.

The fable is susceptible of various interpretations.

Consumers will at once recognize the profiteer taking advantage of shortages to pull the public leg. Farmers will be reminded of commission men rigging the game against producer and consumer alike by restricting produce receipts to maintain arbitrary price levels.

Methods, Not Men, Are to Blame

Greed, stupidity, mismanagement, inefficient distribution—call it what you will—are severally or together certainly playing Procrustes with America. While one-half of the country finds its purse stretched to the breaking-point by local overconsumption, another part of the continent, with more resources than it can use, is cut off from voracious markets by confiscatory transportation rates and intermediate handling charges.

While half the country, drawing the bulk of factory and larder supplies from beyond the Mississippi, protests against high-priced fruits, grains, bread, clothing and building material the West, at the mercy of isolation, middleman and railroad overhead, compares the cost of raising grain, apples, prunes, wool, of cutting timber and manufacturing cement with the checks received from consignees and wonders how it can meet mortgages.

Men aren't to blame. Methods are responsible for dearths along the Atlantic and surpluses beyond Chicago.

Mileage, the National Pickpocket

Little conspiracies of avarice are the least guilty factors in the situation.

Financial provincialism, rural incompetence and the hiving instinct of majorities are the three prime causes of mounting living costs.

The quickest way to revise freight schedules is to fill the cars on both tracks. Returning empties travel at the expense of out-bound loads.

So long as factories remain where floor space is sold above a dollar a foot and their employes pay fifty to a hundred dollars flat rentals, wages can't possibly fall.

Manhattan retailers must get five dollars for the box of apples sold in Seattle for 98 cents because at least three dollars' worth of mileage has crept in the case en route.

White Light Bigots

If capital watched maps as closely as it studies commercial prospectuses; if the bankers who control the most of our ready money weren't white light bigots and knew more about the resources of the Pacific and the Northwest, controlling stockholders of big corporations would instruct their directors to vote against the further extension of plants in expensive realty and raw material environments.

It'd be worth ten billion dollars in the next twelve months to America if New York, Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit would load a train with captains of industry, notebrokers, trust company presidents, engineers and master mechanics, and sent them on an inspection tour. After that they'd understand how to reduce payrolls and estimates.

Sound Investments at Ponzi Rates

A two-thousand-mile gap in development; twenty-six million unutilized horsepower in Washington, Oregon, Idaho. Montana and Wyoming; empires of standing spruce and fir and pine; boundless areas of untilled arable land would advise them where every dollar at their command could do the work of two.

Henry Villard and Jay Cooke, Jim Hill and Earling and Harriman foresaw the trend of events.

The founders of Seattle visioned the growing trade from the Orient and our enormous outlets there.

But since the Great War Wall Street's eyes have been bent upon European sunsets instead of Pacific dawns.

The wealth that ought to promote national works and stabilize prosperity seeks gambling chances abroad, is lured into foreign and tax-exempt securities, purblindly oblivious to safe, sound investments, backed by the storehouses of nature and guaranteed at Ponzi rates by world hungers and lacks.

Necessity's Medicine Chest

The remedies for discontent and deficits are within our own borders. Only constructive imagination is lacking. Sectional chauvinism, fear of dropping mother neighborhood's apron-strings, regional jealousies and unread signs of the times foster inexcusable extravagances, recklessly compound our problems, deprive the United States of available opportunities and keep the pen in the red ink bottle.

Open the Northwest to industry and all will be well.

Society's Silhouettes, the Reigning Fall Fad

How "Action" Cutouts as Well as Stately "Stills" in Black and White by a Russian Baroness Made an Almost Obsolete Art the Swagger Thing Again

Van Arsdale's Depiction of Miss Lanier Taking a Risky Jump on "Dixie." Note the Vivid "Action" Quality of the Lines and the Suggestion of Motion.

Miss Betty Berry on 'Never Bounce,' at the Babylon, L. I., Horse Show. Another Effective Van Arsdale Silhouette.

Baroness Eveline Maydell, the Esthonian Beauty, Discoverer of the Animated Silhouette.

George W. Green, Cousin of the Famously Wealthy Hetty Green, Caught by the Baroness in an Intimate Pose of Easy Relaxation.

AND now that society has tired of its late toys—painted poodles and Russian vaudeville and palm-reading and even Mah Jong—it has gone back two centuries and snatched eagerly at an old fad with a new "kick," the ANIMATED silhouette!

You all know (if you are over eighty, by experience, and if under thirty, by legend) what a silhouette is. Prosaic dictionaries precisely define it as "a profile drawing or portrait having its outline filled in with uniform color."

So far, well enough. But these novel bits of black and white delineation which have given society its new lease on the tenancy of a jaded life are far, far different in spirit, though similar in style.

The old-fashioned silhouette which sprang into birth in the late eighteenth century was restricted in its range and stiff in its subject matter. A prim matron, with huge muff and bulging bustle, holding a formal bouquet; a staid old gentleman lifting his "pot-hat" or rigidly posed in iron immobility—these were the favorite themes.

"Away with such 'ancient chatter' !" cries society. "Give us youth—beauty—ACTION! Reshuffle the cards so that the ancient antimacassar 'comes in' again—but paint it in futuristic oranges, scarlets and purples! Reconstruct the ormolu clock—but endow it with jagged, cubistic, fantastic lines! Resurrect the silhouette—but put a little 'pep' into it!"

Which is exactly what the gifted Baroness Eveline Maydell, Esthonian beauty and art pupil of the great Biblione, proceeded to do. She did it with such promptness and success that New York society, like a moon-struck child suddenly handed a slice of Luna, is still a bit astonished.

At any rate, the Baroness has "struck twelve" with society. Partly through native racial shrewdness (she is Russian to her delicate fingertips), partly through remarkable aptitude with her dainty silver stork-scissors, the noblewoman has stopped the yawn already half-etched on Society's bored face.

And all this just as dust began to gather on the Mah Jong table, and the poodles rebelled at the lip-stick, and the Chauve-Souris became "such a nuisance," and palmistry, once ragingly popular, grew "positively common, my dear!"

A word or two about this Baroness, who wrought the seeming marvel with such simple devices; for her personality is the keynote of the latest blue-blooded American Fall fad. Clever with brush, crayon and etching-needle, she grew to girlhood in the port of Reval, on the Gulf of Finland. Later, as a young woman in the then St. Petersburg, she thrilled to the thistledown grace of Anna Pavlowa when that dancer electrified the now-vanished Romanoff court.

[illegible] lovely Eveline's fingers itched to ma[illegible] pigment-tube, palette and camel's-hair and embody "Incomparable Anna" on ivory, canvas or wood. But Biblione, pet painter to Czar Nicholas, in charge of the Baroness's art education, uttered words sage and far-seeing.

"You have talent," he remarked. "You have, my child, an ability in water-color, and pen and ink, too. But those little hands possess a very special and precious gift. DON'T GIVE UP YOUR SHEARS!"

She didn't give them up. She studied silhouetting with all the passionate persistence of a fisherman on a nibbleless day, or a catcher baffled by a tricky inshoot. And when the crimson tongue of the Revolution licked Russia's nobility clean of gold and jewels, and even of home and safety, she was glad she had.

Like others of her countrywomen, she fled, with her husband, a German scientific research worker, to America. And here, equipped only with gentility, charm and her trusty scissors, she gave society the new silhouette, which is spreading, like all hobbies, as a coast-to-coast craze.

Already she has pupils galore, while other artists, themselves independently gifted along similar lines, have taken up the work with warmth and honor and financial gain. For good silhouetting isn't easy. He who can qualify is entitled to expect ample checks and an eventual bank account. Society is lavish when once its taste for novelty has been cunningly tickled.

Chief among the master-craftsmen of the modern silhouette is the New Yorker, Walt Van Aradale, three of whose "animations" are reproduced on this page. Mr. Van Aradale has gone even further than the Baroness; for where she has mainly been content to endow a pose or gesture with the semblance of arrested motion, he apparently has vied with the news photographer.

Just what is the difference in method of the Baroness and her rivals is not disclosed. But she makes no secret of her system with the shears. "It is really very simple, the idea at least," she laughs. "I first make a sketch of my sitter. Next I cut it out and make an accurate tracing on a thin, black, dull finished sheet. Then I cut the figure or head out and mount it on heavy white paper. And, presto! The completed product is ready for Mademoiselle's pleasure, or that of her mother."

All this is very good, the reader will say. But how on earth, or under or above it, does the Baroness achieve her startlingly life-like resemblances to her "subjects"? The answer is that no one knows, not even she herself. Perhaps it is some swift trick of the optic nerve, which enables her to see and note with rapidity what another might dawdle over for hours. Perhaps it is the dexterity of the hands—hands that dart like lightning flashes over the drawing-board and snip the ebony-colored paper with the precision of a meat-chopper. Perhaps it is some inner gift—that which is loosely labeled "genius" and which the astute Biblione recognized before anyone else.

Adds the Baroness, with a twinkle: "And the comic part of it all is that I am now hailed as a maker of novelties, as a pioneer of artistic progress. For what? Simply that I took up a form of expression which, because of its age, people had forgotten all about. True: I did give it—what you call?—a 'keeck,' a flourish. But this was simply inevitable, since the true artist is never quite content with copying his predecessors' efforts.

"Silhouetting? Zut! It is as old as the hills, or nearly. But would you believe it, 98 persons out of 100 couldn't tell you what the noun is derived from? Yet an amusing fact hangs thereby—amusing because, as you'll see, the economical black and white medium of the eighteenth century has become the prodigally generous fad of the twentieth.

"It was a French banker, Etienne de Silhouette, from whose name the process was taken. He was a frugal man, this Etienne, and, as Minister of Finance, he saved more money for the French Government than a Bourbon King would have spent on his mistress's frocks—quite a great deal! The Parisians, as you Americans say, 'fell for' the portraits, because in 1780 there was a money stringency, and, though people couldn't bear to abandon the idea of admiring their own faces, they wanted to cut down on expenses.

"Here is the most interesting point in the whole business. The eighteenth century took its artistic pleasures seriously, even sombrely. Movement, sprightliness, the suggestion of flowing grace in gown or sleeve never occurred to it as possible. Lavater, for example, subjected his sitters to actual annoyance. If you look at old engravings, you will see a hard chair in which a lady sits. She clutches the brace of the silhouette-frame desperately, to hold her profile in line. She does not look happy.

"To-day that is all different. We catch our subjects 'on the wing.' We sketch and snip and paste, swiftly and surely. So when I finish this one on which I am working (the Baroness glanced up from her board) I shall repeat, like a little prayer, Biblione's advice, 'Don't give up your shears!' "

The silhouette which engaged her attention was that of Pavlowa. Years ago, in snowy St. Petersburg, the Baroness wanted to "do" the ethereal Anna in oils or water color. Now she's glad she didn't.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

THE one time in a girl's life when she really needs a friend, is her first day at the office. It's heart-breaking for her to sit at the typewriter and listen to the different clerks bet on who's going to take her to lunch.

BUT she doesn't care who the lucky one is, as long as somebody wins.

IF everybody lost she'd have to pay for her own meal.

THEN just as the handsome bookkeeper is all set to ask her, the boss comes in and takes her out himself.

IF he had clipped the coupon and made the best of his spare hours he could be taking the new stenographer to lunch.

IT pays to study at night and become a ten-thousand-dollar-a-year official, unless you'd rather work for twenty-five bucks a week and eat alone.

THE first thing a pretty stenographer does when she goes to work in an office is to make the other girls jealous.

IF she's good looking, she gets away with murder because she's beautiful; and if she's homely and still gets away with it, she must have something on the boss.

VERY few girls ever give a new stenographer the credit of having a brain.

WHEN a new girls comes to work for a firm, the rest of the dames have to go to the theatre with a guy from some other office.

THIS girl keeps on being showered with attention and the clerks can't do enough for her. Then some morning a new stenographer comes to work.

SO this girl joins the rest of the typists and spends her time with them, knocking the one who just arrived.

DO NOT BE A MAN WITH A BURIED TALENT

You say that you cannot afford to do certain things that some others are doing; but, if you were to look at both sides of the question, perhaps you cannot aford not to do them.

You have had certain ambitions, you possess certain abilities which would be valuable if you were in a

But you hang back—"cannot afford to spend money and time to make the acquaintance of those who might help," you say.

This sort of saving is poor economy.

If you have any business ability you will realize that anything you can do to boost your income in such fashion you must afford.

It is the old, old story of the man with one talent who buried it, and you know what happened to him.
